MARSHALL TO TESTIFY AT INVESTIGATION

Wartime Army Chief of Staff To Be Heard By Pearl Harbor Probers

ARRANGING TAKE-OFF

BULLETIN

Washington, Nov. 29—(AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall's last minute warning to the army commander in Hawaii to "be on the alert"—a message delivered after the attack on Pearl Harbor—was laid before congressional investigators today. A previous investigation by an army inquiry board showed that while Marshall called Gen. Douglas MacArthur in the Philippines by telephone to warn him on December 7, 1941, he dispatched a message to Lt. Gen. Walter C. Short, in command at Honolulu. The message showed it was dispatched from Washington at 12:18 p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

Army investigators learned it was received in Hawaii about 45 minutes later, less then an hour before the attack began at 7:50 a. m., Hawaiian time. Because of the attack it was not delivered to Short until about three hours later.

Washington, Nov. 29—(AP)—Congressional investigators learned today that Americal naval attaches in Japan and some districts of China were notified Dec. 4, 1941—three days before the Pearl Harbor attack—to destroy their codes.

Gerhard Gesell, committee counsel, put into the records of the senate-house committee investigating the attack a dispatch sent to the attaches Dec. 4 by Admiral Harold R. Stark, then chief of naval operations. Admiral Husband E. Kimmel, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet at the time was marked in for a copy.

The message instructed the attaches to "destroy this system" at their discretion and to report on their actions by replying with the words "jaberwock" and "boomerang."

This development in the inquiry came after Chairman Barkley announced that Gen. George C. Marshall, former army chief of staff, will be called as a witness before he leaves for China as President Truman's special envoy. Marshall is expected to depart in three or four days.

Gesell read the Stark message, copies of which he said arrived while the hearing was in progress, as Republican members pressed Joseph C. Grew, former ambassador to Japan, about the destruction of American code books and secret files in Tokyo.

Rep. Gearhart (R-Calif) asked if Grew was sure no American codes or other information were

Husband-Nabbing Case Is Settled

Chicago, Nov. 29—(AP)—Counsel for Mrs. Olive Means Daily, 45, Oil City, Pa., announced today an out-of-court settlement of two suits in which she alleged a former neighbor, Mrs. Marian Lammers Parker, 42, lured her husband, Wilfred J. Daily, 49, away from her and the four Daily children.

The attorney, Urban A. Lavery, announced the settlement in federal court. Judge John P. Barnes approved and consented to dismissal of the lawsuits.

Lavery in a statement to reporters said the settlement involved $101,000 divided this way: $36,000 cash paid by Mrs. Parker; a property settlement by Daily, guaranteed by the deposit of securities in trust and incidental cash, $30,000; existing life insurance on Daily's life irrevocably transferred to the Daily children with premium payment guaranteed, $35,000.

Lavery also announced that Mrs. Daily obtained a divorce from Daily yesterday in superior court here.

Dates Are Fixed For Next Year's Primary and Election

Harrisburg, Nov. 29—(AP)—Pennsylvania politics, always simmering, reach the boiling stage next year on May 21—primary election day—and November 5—general election day. Voters will choose a new governor and name a U. S. senator, members of congress and the legislature.

Those two dates are the only ones certain in the 1946 election calendar made public today by Charles M. Morrison, secretary of the commonwealth.

Any sudden decision by President Truman or congress to declare the war officially over may throw the rest of the dates in the calendar—for registration, circulation of nomination petitions, and scores of other technical steps in the election processes—out of kilter, the elections bureau explained today.

That is because wartime laws affecting the elections were made applicable only for the duration, largely because so many voters were in the armed services, and it was necessary to give plenty of time for getting military ballots overseas and back.

Subject to change by a declaration of the war's end, the electioneering may start officially Feb. 9, when candidates for the recognized parties may begin gathering signatures for their nomination petitions. Independents may start getting signers for their nomination papers on March 11.

Candidates who change their mind about running have until March 18 to withdraw. That also is the deadline for filing objections to nomination petitions. Registrations for the primary close March 30—the last day, also, for changing party or non-partisan enrollment until after the general election.

The lid closes April 10 on filing candidates' nomination papers.

Registration of voters after the primary election will start May 27, and end Sept. 14.

Members of the parties' state committees, elected at the primary, must meet for organization not later than June 26.

The dates in the election calendar govern moving-day for citizens who don't want to lose their voting privileges temporarily: March 21 is the last day an elector may move from one election district to another and still be eligible to cast his ballot at the primary; if he moves after Sept. 5, he cannot vote at the general election.

Denial Made By Yamashita Of Atrocities

Manila, P. I., Nov. 29—(AP)—Direct examination of Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, testifying in his own defense on war crimes charges, concluded today with the former Philippine commander steadfastly denying any knowledge of atrocities committed by his Japanese army subordinates.

In response to questions by his defense attorneys, Yamashita admitted close liaison with his various chiefs of staff but snapped an emphatic "no" to a question whether he ever issued any orders for killings or brutal treatment of civilians.

In fact, he testified, he had instructed his subordinates to cooperate with the Filipinos as much as possible.

In conclusion, the Japanese general gripped the arms of his chair and declared earnestly:

"The matters referred to in charges here I have known for the first time from witnesses before this court. When and if such acts were committed by my subordinates it is in complete disagreement with my own ideas.

"I never ordered such actions, never condoned such actions, nor have I ever recognized such actions at all."

Furthermore, he said, had he been aware of them he would have ordered them discontinued.

CHAMPION OF BABY BEEFS BRINGS $4,258

Pittsburgh, Nov. 29—(AP)—"Jake", 995-pound grand champion of the baby beeves in the 13th Pittsburgh Livestock Show was sold for $4,258.75, or $4.25 a pound, in open auction at the closing sessions of the three-day show here yesterday.

Show President N. L. Clairborne said the price was the highest ever paid for a steer in a Pittsburgh show.

The steer, a purebred Aberdeen-Angus, was owned and exhibited by Dale Crozier, 16-year-old 4-H Club member of Zanesville, O.

10-Story Addition For Hamot Planned

Erie, Nov. 29—(AP)—A movement got under way today to raise $1,800,000 by public subscription for construction of a 10-story building for Hamot hospital—which officials described as in critical need of revision and expansion.

Dr. Arthur G. Davis, chairman of the hospital's advisory committee, said the institution is "literally bursting at the seams," with an average of 38 to 40 people a day waiting at the door.

The new building, providing 190 more beds, would increase the hospital's capacity to 483 adult patients and permit expansion of surgical and other service. Between 3,000 and 6,000 more patients could be admitted annually.

12 Believed Lost On Navy Seaplane

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 29—(AP)—Twelve crew members of a navy seaplane salvage derrick which was sunk last night in collision with the tanker SS McClelland Creek in the waters around Thimble Shoals are feared lost, coast guard headquarters here reported today.

The navy vessel went down almost immediately after the collision which occurred about 6:45 o'clock last night.

The coast guard said all available rescue vessels and planes are continuing to search the area today for survivors. No bodies have been recovered, the coast guard reported.

Foot of Snow Reported In Central Pennsylvania Area

Pittsburgh, Nov. 29—(AP)—A mixture of rain, snow and freezing temperatures iced some western Pennsylvania highways today and state highway crews were reported cindering.

Weatherman W. S. Brotzman said the rain and snow fell the length of the Ohio-Pennsylvania border.

Harrisburg, Nov. 29—(AP)—The weather bureau reported up to a foot of snow in the central Pennsylvania mountains today but in the eastern district there were heavy rains reaching a maximum of 3.33 inches in Philadelphia.

The heaviest snowfall of 12 inches was reported in Potter county with eight inches in Bradford county, four inches in Clearfield county, and one inch in Perry county.

There was 3.16 inches of rain at Newport, near Harrisburg but only slight precipitation in the Ohio River valley. The rainfall at Williamsport was 2.04 inches, Harrisburg 1.40 inches but only .45 of an inch at Wilkes-Barre.

Leslie F. Conover, head of the weather bureau here, said preliminary estimates indicate there will be floods as a result of the heavy rains in some districts.

Philadelphia, Nov. 29—(AP)—A record November rainstorm blew itself out here today after flooding highways and cellars, knocking down power lines and trees and causing numerous traffic accidents.

During the past 24 hours 3.33 inches of rain fell in Philadelphia, exceeding by .71 of an inch the previous mark set in 1876.

The U. S. Weather Bureau reported the storm struck the entire area of southeastern Pennsylvania with a wind reaching a maximum of 28 miles an hour shortly before daylight.

STEEL UNION POLLS HEAVY STRIKE VOTE

Ballot By Members In National Election Favors Walkout By Five To One Count

NO CALL SCHEDULED

Pittsburgh, Nov. 29—(AP)—Officials of the CIO-United Steel workers held in their hands today authority to call a nationwide strike to enforce their demand for a $2 a day pay raise.

The power was given by members of their union who voted in a national labor relations board election yesterday, favoring a strike nearly 5 to 1.

Unofficial, incomplete returns to the NLRB from hundreds of polling places in 27 states showed the workers voting 342,125 for, only 70,639 against a strike.

There was no indication a strike would be called immediately or even in the near future.

Officials of the USWA told their local leaders before the voting that a favorable ballot did not necessarily mean there would be a strike.

Workers were cautioned against any premature work stoppage and were informed the authority for a strike rests with the National Wage Policy Committee and the executive board.

The election was the greatest NLRB vote ever undertaken in the United States, involving 766 plants and some 650,000 workmen, many thousands of whom did not cast ballots.

The vote was called for by the union after the steel companies declared that they could not grant a $2 a day pay boost without a raise in steel prices, which the OPA refused.

The story was the same in every state, an overwhelming majority for the strike authorization.

Complete, returns from Pennsylvania, greatest steel producer in the nation, with an annual ingot capacity of about 30,000,000 tons, voted 161,512 for, 36,817 against.

The teeming mills of Ohio produced a 69,096 to 14,923 return for the strike authorization.

New York steelworkers plumped for the walkout by about 40,000 to 7,000.

Majorities in these three big states ranged around 5 to 1 but they were not the highest recorded.

About 4,000 workers in Alabama voted 14 to 1 for a strike, nearly 7,500 in Minnesota cast a 13 to 1 ballot for it. Some 16,000 in Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina and Michigan favored the strike 8 to 1, while smaller groups in Utah and Texas voted 10 to 1.

In Arkansas, a single plant with 38 workers voting, gave the strike a thumping 37 to 1 approval.

The smallest majority, about 2 to 1, was recorded by 3,000 steelworkers in Colorado.

Yesterday's balloting involved employes at all plants of "Little Steel" and "Big Steel," numerous independents not included in either groups, as well as aluminum workers who more than a year ago became members of the USWA. Aluminum workers voted for the strike in about the same ratio as steel workers.

Labor Chief Takes a Hand In G.M. Strike

Detroit, Nov. 29—(AP)—Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach took a personal hand today in the nine-day-old General Motors strike which has idled 225,000 workers and stalled production in more than 70 plants.

Schwellenbach, who conferred with President Truman late last week on the GM strike, sat in on a four-hour meeting with officials of the CIO United Automobile Workers at Washington yesterday.

The conference was called by Chief Federal Conciliator Edgar L. Warren, who announced later he and Schwellenbach would ask GM President C. E. Wilson to re-

Erie Considering Parking Meters

Erie, Nov. 29—(AP)—Parking meters for the city's business district in 1946 appeared a certainty today, unless Erie councilmen change their minds.

The four council members have declared themselves unanimously in favor of meters as a new source of revenue for the city. Park Director Gale Ross and Streets Director Harry J. Klebes, long opposed to the meters, have jumped on the band wagon. Klebes said meters would help solve traffic and parking problems.

An estimate of a $25,000 return in 1946, if action is taken soon, and $50,000 annually after that, was made by Finance Director Joseph C. Martin.

Mayor Charles R. Barber, who also has a vote, said he would withhold his decision pending discussions of the proposal at city budget sessions starting next week.

New Way To Combat Shortage of Offices

Columbia, S. C., Nov. 29—(AP)—Lawyers coming back to Columbia from military service can't find office space, so as a temporary expedient they will be allowed to hang out their shingles outside circuit and county courtrooms.

Clerk of Court Clarence Hinnant served notice on them, however, that they would have to vacate their "offices" when the courts are in session.

Troops Pour Into Ports By The Thousands

By the Associated Press

With troops now pouring into Pacific coast ports by the thousands every day, facilities for handling them and sending them on to separation centers are becoming badly jammed army officials said yesterday (Wed.)

Brig. Gen. Eley P. Denson, commanding general of the Seattle port of embarkation said barracks handling arrivals at Portland, Seattle and Tacoma were filled to capacity with about 30,000 men despite movements out, and that 11,000 men were due within the next two days in the Seattle and Tacoma areas.

"We are about five trainloads behind schedule from Seattle alone," he said.

Troop arrivals in San Francisco have created a "sudden passenger overload," spokesmen for Santa Fe, Southern Pacific and Western Pacific railroads said in a joint statement after conferences with military authorities.

The railroads said they had been informed 405,000 service men requiring rail transportation would be landed at Pacific coast ports this month, but that actually there would be about 465,000.

Army officials at Los Angeles said that for several weeks there have been delays of three to four days in getting returning servicemen started homeward, and that the situation was getting no better.

Early Flight To China Is Planned

Washington, Nov. 29—(AP)—Armed with broad powers, Gen. George C. Marshall sped preparations today for a quick flight to China. His predecessor's explosive resignation headed for an airing on Capitol Hill.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the senate foreign relations committee told reporters he plans to call both Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley and Secretary of State James F. Byrnes before a closed door session, perhaps Monday.

The purpose, Connally said, will be an informal discussion of Hurley's contention that he had been crossed up as ambassador to China by subordinates both in the state department and at Chungking.

Connally stressed, however, that he has no intention of ordering any such full-dress hearing as Senator Wherry (R-Neb) demanded in a bitter senate speech late yesterday. This would have covered just about everything connected with the state department, the Atlantic charter and the Potsdam Big Three agreement.

French Criticized By General "Ike"

By JAMES F. KING

Frankfurt, Germany, Nov. 29—(AP)—Gen. Eisenhower in a report released here today, criticized the French government for hampering the Allied Control Council and urged early establishment of central German administrative machinery.

Summarizing the situation in Germany in October, before he left to become chief of staff of the U. S. army, Eisenhower cited the potential dangers "of unrest and disease this winter."

He declared, however, there was "no immediate emergency in the American and British zones as long as current rations can be maintained."

The release followed by a day the White House disclosures of a report to President Truman by Byron Price, former censorship director, blaming France for most of the occupation difficulties.

Stating the United States had no intention of "taking any active steps to raise Germany above the economic level required by humanitarianism," Eisenhower declared that German industry must be raised above the five to seven percent of capacity at which it is now operating, and that food must be imported without thought of payment.

BURTON LAUD RESIGNS AS D. A. OF ERIE CO.

Erie, Nov. 29—(AP)—Burton R. Laub, who was elected judge of Erie county common pleas court three weeks ago, announced his resignation as district attorney yesterday.

He said he plans to rest until Jan. 7, when he will assume the judgeship.

His final appearance as district attorney was made Monday before the supreme court in Philadelphia to oppose the appeal of John D. West and Robert W. Pepperman, both of Williamsport, convicted slayers of an Erie man.

Ghastly Scenes of Nazi Camps Exhibited at Trial

TRUMAN NOT IN FAVOR OF CONFERENCES

Chief Executive Says He Sees No Need for Any More Meetings of the Big Three

DEPENDING ON U.N.O.

Washington, Nov. 29—(AP)—President Truman said today he saw no need for any more Big Three conferences if the United Nations organizations works as it should.

Asked at a news conference whether revisions in Allied control machinery for Germany might require a meeting of himself, Generalissimo Stalin and Prime Minister Attlee, Mr. Truman said he was not in favor of special conferences.

He wants the United Nations to do its job, he added, asserting he remembers that the League of Nations was ruined by special conferences.

The president stated he hoped the United Nations would take over within the next 90 days all the problems previously worked out by Big Three meetings.

In his discussion of foreign policy Mr. Truman also developed these points:

1. He does not share the fear which a questioning reporter (Bert Andrews of the New York Herald-Tribune) said some persons in the country hold that Russia will not cooperate toward world peace or that Russia's policies will lead to war. He was very emphatic in stating he did not share any such fears.

2. At a later date, the president will discuss fully the international situation, particularly as it involves efforts of the nation to cooperate for peace. The discussion may be at a news conference.

3. Negotiations are now under way among the Allies ruling Germany for a revision of the Potsdam declaration on Germany in some respects. Chiefly the United States is seeking a modification of the arrangement which requires unanimous agreement among this government, Russia, France and Britain before any decisions can be made by the Allied control council in Berlin. This effort at revision grows out of Byron Price's report on the possible failure of American aims and policies in Germany.

4. Gen. George C. Marshall, the president's special envoy to China probably will leave for Chungking in three or four days and the instructions which he is finally given may be published. They are yet to be worked out, although Mr. Truman said that Marshall's basic job would be to carry out the policies which we've always had in China.

5. The resignation of Ambassador Patrick J. Hurley from the China post reached his desk formally only this morning, the president said. Hurley announced it two days ago with a blast at American "career diplomats." Mr. Truman declined to comment on the Hurley criticisms.

Strike Vote In the Area Is Favorable

With only a few exceptions the vote of CIO steelworkers in Western Pennsylvania mills yesterday favored a strike to enforce their demands for a $2 per day wage increase.

In towns in this section the following vote was cast:

Franklin Steel Works, Franklin—124 yes; 11 no.

Chicago Pneumatic Tool Co., Franklin—130 yes; 169 no.

Universal Cyclops Steel, Titusville—183 yes; 65 no.

Struthers Wells, Titusville—421 yes; 143 no.

Elliott Company, Ridgway—288 yes; 35 no.

Jones and Laughlin Steel, Oil City—56 yes; 23 no.

Oil Well Supply Co., Oil City—(clerical force)—17 yes; 32 no. Production department—559 yes; 128 no.

Manton Steel Barrel, Oil City—92 yes; 7 no.

Bucyrus-Erie, Erie—415 yes; 44 no.

National Erie, Erie—360 yes; 36 no.

Coaches Endeavor To End Students' Strike

Pittsburgh, Nov. 29—(AP)—City high school coaches announced they would resume their coaching duties today pending action by the board of education Tuesday on their demand for coaching pay.

The coaches hoped this would halt the spreading strike of sympathetic students, which today embraced about 5,000 enthusiastic youngsters who either paraded about the streets with signs or went to the movies, instead of school.

Ringing cowbells and chanting "no sports, no school," the boys and bobby soxers swarmed the streets, pausing sometimes to try to "strike" another school.

Icy Highways Cause Series Of Accidents

Slushy highways, result of snow and colder weather arriving overnight, made driving hazardous today and accounted for several minor accidents, most of which were not even reported to police.

State Police were called to Devil's Elbow on the Kinzua road about 9:30 a. m. when a Dodge truck owned by William F. Crossett and a 1940 Oldsmobile sedan operated by John Denos, 19 Mechanics street, Bradford, collided on the worst part of the curve at the foot of the hill.

The investigation is being continued and State Police may charge the driver of the truck, Donald E. Guiher, Clarendon RD 1, with failure to drive on the right side of the highway. Damage to the truck was estimated at 200 and to the Oldsmobile, about $300.

Guiher was taken to a physician in Kinzua for treatment of a chin laceration, contusions on both legs and knees and loss of a tooth. Ella Voorhees, 39 Bishop street, Bradford, en route to Cleveland and a passenger in the Denos car, was shaken up and had a cut on her lip but did not require treatment.

A West Ridge bus and a passenged car used to transport school children collided early this morning on Conewango avenue, at the Frank street intersection, damaging the latter to some extent.

Several cars were off the highway during the night, the Munksgard wrecker being called to the vicinity of the Lily Pond to bring one in about 1:30 a. m.

Emperor System Discussed In Diet

By RUSSELL BRINES

Tokyo, Nov. 29—(AP)—Half-hearted applause greeted a suggestion in the Japanese diet today that the emperor system should be perpetuated under a Japanese-style democracy.

Premier Kijure Shidehara and one of Japan's leading reconstruction politicians, Ichiro Hatoyama, both voiced the opinion in an unprecedented legislative discussion in the house.

Hatoyama, leader of the Liberal party, drew only polite applause when he said the "emperor system must be retained" as bulwark against "possible dictatorships." Shidehara voiced agreement.

The Liberal leader demanded to know the limits of the government's contemplated democratization. The premier replied with a definition of democracy as "representation of the will of the people."

This, Shidehara declared, was assured by freedom of thought, press and "equality of individuals."

SAY GOERING RESPONSIBLE FOR INVASION

VON PAPEN IS INVOLVED

By WES GALLAGHER

Nuernberg, Nov. 29—(AP)—Ghastly scenes of Nazi concentration camps were shown in motion pictures today to the international military tribunal but some of the Hitlerite leaders on trial sat with averted eyes during the showing of the grimy film record of German cruelty.

The grisly pictures of mass murder sobered Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering and others of the score of defendants who had grinned and laughed earlier as an American prosecutor disclosed the threats, bluffs and deceit with which Hitler softened up Austria for an unopposed invasion.

Hjalmar Schacht, Hitler's "financial wizard," sat with his back to the screen, refusing to look at the official U. S. army film. Franz von Papen, once Germany's wiliest diplomat, refused to glance at the screen but could not shut out the sound of the narrator's voice describing the deaths of thousands of Nazi victims.

Rudolph Hess, on the other hand, showed an interest in the trial for the first time. Hitler's one-time deputy, who is trying to escape from the trial on a plea of lost memory, followed the uncensored film closely.

The court adjourned for the day at 4:45 p. m. (10:45 a. m. EST) after the motion picture was entered as evidence.

Fat and not-too-happy Hermann Goering was described as the man who directed by telephone the blitz invasion of Austria after Austrian Nazis paved the way by deposing Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg.

Goering became serious as assistant U. S. Prosecutor Sidney S. Alderman read in detail transcripts of telephone conversations between Goering and Austrian Nazis on the days before and on the days of the unopposed invasion.

The records were found in the ruins of the Berlin air ministry building by Associated Press Correspondent Dan De Luce and given to the prosecution for evidence.

"This highly interesting document allows us to live again in those grim days of anschluss," Alderman declared.

Many of the telephone conversations were with Arthur Seyss-Inquart, Austrian Nazi leader and one of Goering's fellow defendants. The prosecution said the records clearly disclosed Nazi plotting to absorb Austria into the Reich.

The prosecutor pointed out to the court the cynical discrepancies and "international double talk" between Goering's open threats to the Austrian government and his telephoned statement the day after the anschluss to Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, who at the time was in London, that "this story we had given an ultimatum is just foolish gossip."

The last statement was for the benefit of English agents tapping the telephone wire, Alderman said.

Franz von Papen, who paved the way for the anschluss as minister to Austria, grinned when Goering's talk with Ribbentrop was read.

Goering himself almost doubled up with laughter when Alderman quoted him as telling Ribbentrop how he was sitting on his Berlin balcony drinking his coffee while "the birds are twittering."

For the second straight day, American prosecutors continued to unfold the tale of Nazi intrigue, deceit and fifth column activity that resulted in the blitz anschl-

600 UNRRA Employes Fired For Unsatisfactory Service

Herford, Germany, Nov. 29—(AP)—Leo J. Margolin, chief of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration in Europe, said in a statement today that 600 UNRRA employes had been dismissed for incompetence within the last few months.

He said most of those dismissed were nationals of European countries.

Margolin declared he wished to correct a previous Associated Press report which quoted him as saying 600 UNRRA workers, a majority of them Americans and British, had been dismissed, suspended or arrested.

(In London the European office of the UNRRA said the previous report that the dismissals were in connection with a two-month investigation into black market activities in Germany "is completely inaccurate."

("The facts are that 600 UNRRA officials in Germany have been removed for unsatisfactory service in the process of strengthening personnel engaged in displaced persons activities," the UNRRA statement said.

("By some misunderstanding this seems to have been linked up with the announcement that one UNRRA worker of Czech nationality has been imprisoned for theft and that others have been suspended.")

Margolin said that during the last few months the 600 employes had been dismissed for incompetency as part of a reorganization put into effect by Lt. Gen. Sir Frederick A. Morgan, UNRRA director in Germany.

SHOW ORIGINALITY

These several Christmas wrappings not only solve the problem of how to pack an odd-shaped gift, but will make it stand out among all the others.

By KATHARINE SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK—Big news in the Christmas tinsel and tissue paper trade is the first reappearance since the war of silver and gold metallic paper. It's a token showing only, and brows of tradesmen are still furrowed as they wrestle with the uneven balances of supply and demand.

In general, Christmas wrapping supplies will not exceed last year's with only a few new patterns. Cleverly wrapped gifts will continue to depend more on imagination than unlimited selection of materials.

Jingly little Christmas bells, tiny pine cones, wreaths and splashy rayon satin ribbons will be best bets for spicing up a package. Combine them with originality and you'll have a package that will make Christmas really merry.

Take, for instance, a large square box. It looks just like a box until you transform it with a sprinkling of cut-out snow flakes into a window from fairyland. Or it might become a snow-rimmed chimney, by pasting red crepe paper on it, marking the brick design with strips of heavy white paper, and pasted on a two-inch band of white cotton.

ODD-SIZE PACKAGES

Another cheerful addition under the Christmas tree is the red sleigh coasting in with its precious cargo wrapped in silver paper or white tissue. Measure the box and draw a sleigh pattern to fit on heavy red paper; cut out and fold. Place the "sleigh" over the box and tie all together with green ribbon. As a special fillip, add pine cones and run a red candy cane through the bow.

Odd - sized, or hard - to - wrap gifts are skillfully packaged in the fat white snowball, the sturdy red and white stocking, or a Christmas candle with a red paper flame. The gala horn of array of small gifts is simply a cardboard cone covered with paper and sticker stars and trimmed with a pouf of colored cellophane straws tied to the end.

HOW TO MAKE A CANE

To make the Christmas candle shown, use a tube of heavy white paper, paste the edges together and cover with crepe paper, leaving about two extra inches at the top. Frange the lower end of the tube into tabs an inch deep and a half inch wide. The heavy paper base is also crepe paper covered, and is cut out doughnut fashion and slipped over the fringed end of the tube. The tabs are blued flat to the underside.

Now, paste the whole business on a strong cardboard foundation, put in your gift and draw together the edges of the crepe paper at the top to form a flame. Tie with ribbon, spiral ribbon around the candle to the base, and pin flat, Wind more ribbon around the base and stick on a few holly berries or pine cones.

STORM DELAYED TRAIN

The storm that covered this section with snow was more severe to the east and on the Buffalo division of the Pennsylvania railroad wires were downed and traffic slowed. The Northern Express from the east was two hours and fifteen minutes late in arriving in Warren. The east bound train went through on time.

THE STATE POLICE SAY:

Such officers and soldiers of the United State Army, Pennsylvania National Guard, and the Pennsylvania Reserve Defense Corps who are designated as military police or traffic control guards, while engaged in convoying or transporting troops, animals, equipment or other army impediments upon any highway in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania are vested with the authority of arrest for violation of the laws of this state. Under the law you must obey the directions of such officers and soldiers as you would a police officer.

TRAFFIC VIOLATIONS

Two traffic violators were taken last evening by the police. One of them crashed the traffic light at Hickory street and Pennsylvania Ave. and the other was driving too fast for highway conditions. The police last night received a call to notify Lt. Col. T. G. Schligel, of Akron, Ohio of the death of his son in Kansas City. The officer was a guest at the Carver House and the police notified him and helped him get his car out of a garage and started for Akron. Several minor crashes were reported about town due to the snow and on Conewango avenue a car collided with one of the city line buses. The car was badly damaged.

DIVIDEND DECLARED

Directors of the Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., Wednesday declared a dividend of 50 cents per share on the common stock, payable December 20 to stock holders of record at the close of business December 10. Previous payments were 25 cents each on April 2, July 2 and October 1 making the total this year the same as 1944. At the same time directors declared an initial dividend of 76 cents per share on the $4 cumulative preferred stock issued October 25 which dividend is payable January 2, 1946 to stockholders of record at the close of business December 20, 1945.

NEWS OF MR. HOFF

Friends have received word that I. J. Hoff is greatly enjoying his extended western trip, a recent communication from him saying: November 19—Just drove into Shoots Falls, Oregon, after a thrilling and dangerous drive of a week and a day over the old Oregon Trail. I've enjoyed the trip but wouldn't attempt it again at this time of year. At one place, coming down the west slope, I ran into a flock of 1,000 sheep that looked just like the snow on every hand. They crowded me off the road into the ditch but a snowplow came along after an hour or so and lifted me out. No other casualty, but saw several along the way. On the way to Newport, Oregon, to help build a house for my cousin. In Portland tomorrow.

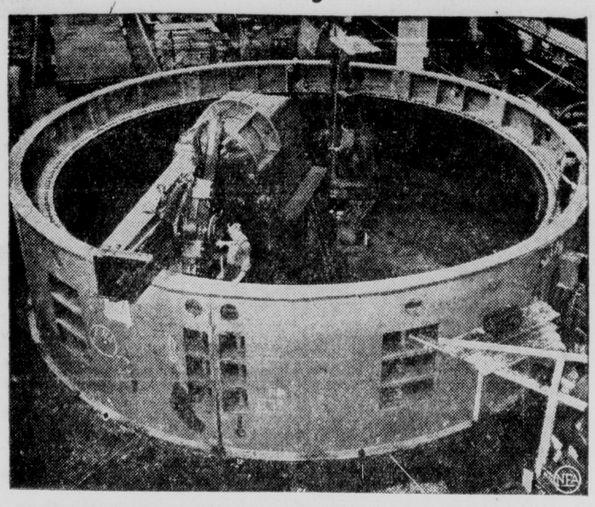
U. S. Builds Largest Armature



This huge hydro-electric generator, when completed at General Electric's Generator Division in Schenectady, N. Y., will go to Russia for its famous Dnieprostroi Dam. Armature frame and core shown here are declared to be the largest in the world. New generators will have a 15 per cent greater output than the old ones built in 1931.

Deer Season Opens Saturday; Hunters Beginning To Arrive

With the advent of snow over this section deer hunters looked forward to a successful season. The forestry officials also took a good look and smiled with glee over the prospects of no fires due to the wet weather.

Already scores of hunting parties have arrived in the county and it is confidently expected that the number in the woodsland here will be the greatest in the history of the county. Due to the publication and circulation of the lists of quarters available to hunters by the Chamber of Commerce rooms for over 500 hunters have been secured. The Chamber of Commerce since the publication of the list has received a large number of additional registrations so that hunters who have not made reservations can do so at the Chamber of Commerce office in the Warren Bank and Trust Building.

Restaurants will also be open on December 2 and 9 for the accomodation of the visitors in town. For the past few years restaurants closed Sundays and the hunters have had trouble in getting meals. All of the restaurants will be open and Pete's Grill will be open all night over both week ends so that hunters passing through town may be fed. The Blue and White Restaurant is also preparing its schedule so that their place of business will be open each Sunday from now on. They had planned this new arrangement to take effect later in December but with the demand for meals by the hunters the opening date was advanced two weeks and they will have meals.

The bear season, which draws to a close today has been highly successful and the hunters have been well rewarded. The kill in this county is a little higher than in the average over the state and some big bears have fallen before the hunters guns.

The 15 day deer season should produce the largest kill of good deer in several years as the herd is in good shape and the animals are larger and stronger than they have been in several seasons.

Friday and Friday night a great influx of red coated men is expected and from the hundreds of camps in this section smoke will rise and the annual outing for hundreds of city folk will be on.

Weatherman Promises Rain For District

The old snow shovel emerged from the moth balls this morning and got a good oiling up for the removal of about an inch of wet, heavy snow that covered sidewalks. That is, some of the shovels did but not many. The trees and shrubs were covered with the clammy, soggy snow and presented a beautiful picture for the early risers.

The old Weatherman has promised rain which is to end tonight and clouds for Friday. The warm air which has covered this area for the past few days is to continue, according to Old Probs and the gas fires may be turned down and the coal conserved a bit by the thrifty folks.

POST-WAR PENNSYLVANIA

Harrisburg—The nation's No. 1 soldier came back to his native state last week, the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission reported.

General of the Army George C. Marshall stepped out of his train at Philadelphia's 30th Street Station to be greeted by Governor Martin and Mayor Samuel. As a band blared "The General's March," a crowd of military and naval dignitaries formed a reception line. Along the city's streets a throng of a million and a quarter cheered to the accompaniment of 75's roaring out 17-gun salutes.

In Independence Hall the General stared at a picture of his ancestor, Chief Justice John Marshall. At the table on which the Declaration of Independence was signed, he signed his name in the guest book. Spotting the white-starred ribbon of the Congressional Fedal of Honor on a visiting sergeant, the General snapped his arm in a prompt salute. That night he was guest of honor at a banquet commemorating the 50th anniversary of the Pennsylvania Commandery, Military Order of Foreign Wars.

Amidst their enthusiasr. the crowds in Philadelphia seemed a trifle awed by their distinguished visitor. George Marshall's natural dignity, a dignity which kept even the late President Roosevelt from calling him by his first name, befitted the new type of soldier produced by modern mechanized warfare. With war now a gigantic industry of destruction, the swashbuckling field commanders have taken second place to the quiet executive at the top.

General Marshall was the first Chief of Staff in American history to outshine the generals who led the armies into combat. Born in Uniontown, December 31, 1880, George went to Virginia Military Institute, where he played football and was All-Southern tackle his senior year. When he graduated in 1901, the Army gave him a commission and sent him to the Philippines. In World War I he rose to a temporary colonelcy as Chief or Staff of the Eighth Army Corps. His remarkable genius was already demonstrating itself. General Pershing thought Marshall at 37 was the best staff officer he had. His shifting of half a million men during the Meuse-Argonne operation was acknowledged to be the outstanding large-scale troop movement of the war.

When the dark night of destruction blacked out Europe in 1939, the President sent 30 names down the promotion list to pick General Marshall, then only a brigadier, to head the reconstruction of our armed forces. On the day that Hitler's tanks rumbled into Poland General Marshall became Chief of Staff. Taking over an Army which that day was scarcely fit to cope with a minor European power, he built it into one of the mightiest fighting forces the world has ever known. He planned a strategy which meant the inevitable doom of the dictators, and held to it despite clamor from inside and outside the country.

On him rested the responsibility for the preservation of democracy, and the burden has never been borne on more capable shoulders. He pulled able officers out of the obscurity into which the hidebound rule of seniority had plunged them. He saw that new weapons and new ideas were tested instead of being superciliously ignored. He gave Gladwyne's General Arnold the authority he needed to build his Air Force into the greatest striking power ever seen. When men mailed him, he broke them ruthlessly. His dressings down were rare but famous. Without profanity, without shouting, his rebukes burned with a quiet fire.

Almost 65, George Marshall last week was ready to take off the many-ribboned uniform he had worn so well. The nation reluctantly prepared to see hi mgo, realized that it owed him a debt which it could repay only with its unending respect and admiration.

HOLIDAY GREETINGS 1945

Shown above are typical holiday greetings for this first peacetime Christmas in four years. Peace is the central theme this year, but there is plenty of humor to be found, too.

By KATHARINE SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Correspondent

New York—Peace on earth. This Christmas message, ringing out after five dark war years, is the joyous theme of 1945 Christmas cards.

The shadow of wartime economy persists, however. Greeting card production restrictions were lifted too late in the year to assure unlimited supplies for this holiday season, but those available are exceptionally well designed and printed.

Early selection and mailing are urged by Army and Navy postal services for those thousands of servicemen and women who still will be overseas at Christmas. To insure pre-Christmas delivery, send the cards by first-class mail in sealed envelopes not later than November 15. All domestic Christmas cards, packages and letters should be mailed by December 10.

Sentiments and verses on Christmas cards, the greeting card industry reports, are shorter and more to the point than in the past, allowing plenty of space for a personal holiday message from the sender.

CLEVER ART WORK

No taint of the hackneyed mars the freshness of the designs which are the work of some of the leading American artists and designers. Everywhere the return of peace is heralded. Angels look down over a broad and peaceful land. Soldiers gratefully lay down their weapons before the cradle of the Prince of Peace.

The heart-warming welcome home, reuniting families separated during the war, is reflected in familiar scenes. Horse-drawn sleighs stop in front of snow-covered homes whose windows are cheerfully ablaze with light. Other cards depict families gathered around the Christmas turkey, or happily distributing gifts around the tree. A benevolent minister shovels the snow from his church door, inviting parishioners to a prayerful observance of their holiday reunion. Silhouetted against a window, Scotties watch expectantly for their master's arrival home.

FUNNY ONES, TOO

Old Saint Nick, appearing in a variety of predicaments, replaces last year's emphasis on wartime shortages and inconveniences in the humorous category. Santa is shown as a gentle little man looking suspiciously like Father with whiskers, an urbane playboy, a jolly kibitzer, a winning prize-fighter and a street photographer.

For the first time a group of fashion artists has turned its sure sense of color and line to the creation of Christmas cards. One artist uses clear peasant costume colors in a stylized treatment of the Christmas story. Others treat traditional Christmas skating and fireside scenes with sophisticated finesse.

Modern and imaginative, this year's cards picture the national desire for a truly old-fashioned Merry Christmas.

Here's Your New Pontiac

Your new car, if you were planning to buy one, may be in this picture, which explains why you won't get it very soon. Scores of finished (upper left) Pontiacs and partially finisned 1946 models stand on production line at Pontiac, Mich., plant, paralyzed by UAW-CIO strike against General Motors.

HUGE JOB AHEAD ON HOME REPAIRS

More than $1,809,000 is expected to be spent during the next five years by Warren county home owners on remodeling and repair work.

The year 1946 promises to inaugurate one of the greatest eras in American history for home repairs and modernization, according to estimates released by the Tile Council of America. "Few developments will contribute more to employment and general prosperity in any community," according to R. E. Jordan, chairman of the Council's Residential Construction Committee.

Because of lack of materials and manpower during the war, majority of the county's 12,058 dwelling units are in need of some kind of repair or remodeling work. Kitchen improvements and modernization of bathrooms, installation of tiled showers and in some homes addition of a second bath top the nation's list of most wanted major improvements, Jordan says.

Outside paint jobs are needed on more than 50 per cent of homes, and addition of rooms and construction of porches also rank high in remodeling plans, according to the report. New roofing and heating plants are required by many dwellings.

Home owners in Pennsylvania will spend an estimated $393,525,000 and those of the nation more than $5,500,000,000 for major repairs in the next five years, according to Jordan. Ample funds, at low interest charges, are available for such work through commercial banks, savings and loan associations, credit unions and mutual savings banks, he pointed out.

ON THE BALL

St. Marys Press

We refer to Leon H. Gavin, whose home is in Oil City.

When the proposed flood control program for this section appeared bogged down in committee, Congressman Gavin made a special request that money be appropriated at once to alleviate any further flood dangers in this area.

He cited some of the experiences Johnsonburg residents went through in the "flash flood" a couple years ago, and said further that control of waters in the valleys surrounding this section would mean a great deal in cutting down flood danger at Pittsburgh, in the Ohio and Mississippi river valleys.

Mr. Gavin is always looking out for the welfare of his constituents and has given his district real representation in the halls of Congress.

He's never too busy to do something for the district or render help wherever he can do so.

Now he wants Congress to take immediate action on his flood control project so work can begin as soon as winter weather is over and the spring of 1946 is with us. He is against any further delays, and is going to fight for an okay now, not sometime in the distant future.

FAVORITE STORY . . .

A soldier was returning from the village, having had a haircut, when he met his captain carrying golf clubs.

"If you're returning to camp, Jones," said the captain, "would you mind putting these clubs in my office for me?"

"Certainly, sir," said Jones slinging the bag over his shoulder. A little nearer the camp he met the colonel.

"Good morning, sir," said Jones, saluting smartly.

"Morning, Jones," answered the colonel genially. "Been for a round of golf?"

"Oh, no sir," the soldier replied. "I've been having a haircut."

"Fourteen days for insolence," bawled the colonel.

With snow shovels busy most of the day now is a good time to print a recipe from the National Safety Council for avoiding falls on icy sidewalks or steps. Take a liberal quantity of sand, gravel or fine cinders. Add coarse of rock salt. And mix. Garnish all icy spots generously with the preparation.

Lots of folks are finding already that Christmas selections are becoming scarce. Wise shoppers have been filling their lists for some time. Better get busy or you're certain to find you are too late.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS ACIDS

Help 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes Flush Out Poisonous Waste

If you have an excess of acids in your blood, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may be overworked. These tiny filters and tubes are working day and night to help Nature rid your system of excess acids and poisonous waste.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Kidneys may need help the same as bowels, so ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Good Old England Dog-Tired But Still Sticking it Out

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP World Traveler

London, Nov. 29—Well, just showing what a good prophet I am, here we are in London after flying the Atlantic, on the first leg of a world tour which we shall chronicle in this column.

Here I should report to you rather belatedly that when I speak of "we" I'm not employing the editorial pronoun. I have a partner—an energetic and capable young woman—who will work with me on this assignment. Now, now—get your tongues out of your cheeks and meet Mrs. MacKenzie. From here on it will be the two Macks.

Both of us have been busy combing the highways ond byways of London since our arrival and our autstanding impression, apart from the battlescars and terrible drabness, is that Britain's capital is very, very tired. Of course, come of the country districts probably don't register the same degree of weariness, but what is true in London undoubtedly is true of other localities which underwent the scourge of bombing.

This isn't snap judgment on our part, for we know our England and her people from many years of residence here. Everywhere you go in the capital you see strain and great weariness registered on drawn faces.

When I was here in 1942 there were strained faces, too, for the war was at its height. But then you didn't notice the weariness so much because everybody was going all out for victory and the dangers and thrills of battle kept the country keyed up. But with war's end there has come a tremendous letdown. My partner and I spent considerable time yesterday talking with strangers whom we met here and there, and a woman bus conductor summed the position up rather well for us.

"We are tired" she said—and her voice had that dead level which bespeaks intense weariness. "The war kept us going, but we thought that when peace came we should get relief from the hard times—but we haven't got it."

There was no bitterness in her tone—just tiredness which reflected the harsh privations which the people of this country still are enduring. Relief will come, but it's a good distance away as yet. The food isn't so good as it was when I was here in 1942, and such necessities as clothing and shoes are hard to get. Luxuries are a thing of the dim and distant past—except for the few folk who debase themselves by trading in the black market which persists despite the efforts of the law to abolish it.

One great reason why relief is slow in coming to the people of England is that the government is diverting a large measure of manufacturers to foreign trade in an effort to bolster John Bull's lean purse. Sir Stafford Cripps, chairman of the board of trade, has preached "austerity" so vigorously to the public that they call him Sir Austerity Cripps—a bit of humor which has a rather harsh connotation for the man in the street who has patches on his trousers.

Now don't get the wrong impression from what I've said. England is dog-tired, and more than a little disappointed because peace hasn't brought relief from the privations of war—but John Bull hasn't lost his fighting spirit. The situation as we see it here today reminds me of an incident I encountered in the first World War when I was attached to British general headquarters in France as war correspondent.

The Fifty-First British Division—I'm writing from memory—was subjected to a fierce attack by ten German divisions. The Fifty-First fought doggedly, pulling back foot by foot but not giving much ground. This went on for seven days and seven nights until the exhausted Tommies would drop in their tracks and fall asleep instantly when there was the slightest lull in the fighting.

At the end of the week the Germans sent over a little balloon which had attached to it a note written in English, presumably by an officer who had lived in Britain. It read:

"Good old Fifty-First, still sticking it. Cheerio."

So it is with England today. It's mighty tired—but still sticking it.

TREE ODDITY

In Muir Woods, California's great forest of redwood trees, the memorial tree honoring William Kent, the man who gave the redwoods to the government, is a Douglas fir.

SOCIETY NEWS

Evening Recital At Philomel Club Is Delightful Event

The first evening recital held by Philomel Club in several seasons was given at the Woman's Club last evening by Byron Swanson, tenor, and Eleanor Swanson, pianist, proving a most satisfying event in every way.

The audience left imediately the evidences of good training by the singer. Mr. Swanson sings with ease and finish and was particularly well received in his operatic airs, a group which demonstrated a good command of foreign languages. To many his English group was a popular selection and friends were pleased with the familiar Tosti "Goodbye".

Miss Lillian Larsen played a very satisfactory piano accompaniment for the singer, as well as appearing at the second piano for Miss Swanson's Reinecke Concerto.

Many had not had recent opportunity of hearing the young pianist in recital and were delighted with her display of technique and fine feeling for the mood of the varied compositions.

The entire program was as follows:

Songs—Amarilli, by Caccini; Speak Again, Love, by Latti; Have You Seen But a Whyte Lilac Grow, anonymous—15th and 16th century.

Piano—Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring, Bach; Sonata in D Minor, Scarlatti; Reflets dans l'eau and Prelude Pour le piano, Debussy.

Gems from the Operas—Celeste Aida from "Aida" by Verdi; Aubade (Serenade) from "Le Roi d'ya, by Lalo; M'appari tutt 'amor from "Martha" by von Flotow.

Piano—Two Rhapsodies, F sharp minor and C major, by Dohnanyi.

Songs—When I Bring to You Color'd Toys, Carpenter; The Bachelor's Complaint, Otey, from the Southern Hill country; Go, Lovely Rose, Quilter; Goodbye, Tosti.

Piano—Concerto in D minor, Reinecke.

Mrs. W. E. Yeager was hostess for the social hour which followed the recital, with refreshments served from a table prettily decorated with chrysanthemums and candles. Hostesses were Mrs. Louis Rapin, Mrs. L. B. Campbell, Mrs. Peter Horning, Mrs. J. B. Leidig and Mrs. Anna Wilson.

Busy Session For Women of Moose

Warren Chapter 693, Women of the Moose, held its regular meeting last evening, Senior Regent Mary Kirberger presiding and conducting the executive session which preceded the general gathering. Library Chairman Alice Reese presented a Chapter Night program with initiation of a class of three candidates and a shower honoring Loretta Moore, chaplain of the group and a recent bride. Mrs. Moore received a number of nice gifts for her new home.

Mrs. Nelson, Mooseheart chairman, asked for gifts for a box to be sent to boys and girls at Mooseheart, and Mrs. Mary Brindis, Hospital Guild chairman, ask i for jams and jellies for her work. All gifts are to be brought to the next meeting, December 5, which will follow a six o'clock spaghetti supper.

Prizes for the evening went to Mary Wertman and Ella Smail.

MANY A big deal has been made possible through a small want ad.

Happiness For Others

Mrs. William Glassman, speaking at the meeting of Girl Scout Leaders Association Tuesday evening, told in detail of a Service Bureau project now under way in Warren in which 55 Girl Scouts are making stuffed animals and other toys to send overseas to children who may never have owned a toy. Beginning the last of October, the girls have met every Tuesday to sew. Materials being among the war casualties, friends have searched their scrap bags for pieces of cotton, plaid and printed. Even so, the supply is now exhausted. One interested woman donated a large amount of batting to stuff the toys. More than 50 have been completed and an equal number started. Not the least interesting part of the plan has been the talks about observance of holidays in lands other than our own. Mrs. C. P. Spiridon told the girls about Christmas in Greece, making the point that Christmas there is a religious festival only, the gift-giving coming at the beginning of the new year. Alexander Rashid told of religious customs of millions of children of the Mohammedan faith. Georgia Spinney, most recent speaker, told at this week's sewing bee how the Christmas season is observed in Russia. On Tuesday, December 4, Mrs. Boris Waxman will explain the Feast of Lights which will be observed next week by people of the Jewish faith. Mrs. Wayne Furman will tell, at a later meeting, about the observance of Twelfth Night in various countries. At the party which will end the series on December 27, moving pictures of Palestine, taken by Harold Banghart, will be shown.

SOCIETY

Margaret Saylor Becomes the Bride Of Philadelphian

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Saylor, 6 Myrtle street, announce the marriage of their daughter, Margaret, to Angelo Amadio, son of Mr. and Mrs. Biagio Amadio, 120 Marlboro road, Upper Darby, on November 22 at high noon in the rectory of St. Francis de Sales church in Philadelphia. The Rev. Father Mahr performed the rite.

The bride wore cream satin, fashioned with sweetheart neckline in a lace yoke, and carried Madonna lilies. Her bridesmaid, Ruth Weakley, of Philadelphia, who was a classmate in training school, wore rose taffeta and carried red roses.

Jula Amadio was his brother's best man.

A wedding breakfast followed at the Amadio home for the immediate families. A dinner for 150 guests at 8:30 p. m. at the Turin Grotto was given by Mr. and Mrs. Caesar Gualla, god-father and god-mother of the bridegroom. The bride's table, banked with chrysanthemums, was laid for 24. The Top Trotters and their soloist provided the dinner music.

The bride is a graduate of the Osteopathic Hospital in Philadelphia, and the bridegroom is a student-intern there following his graduation from St. Joseph's College. After honeymooning in New York, they will make their home in Philadelphia.

Sgt. Helen Stroup Is Wed In Memphis

Sgt. Helen L. Stroup, of the Women's Army Corps, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Stroup, of Enterprise, and Chief Petty Officer Otto C. Becker, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis C. Becker, New York City, were united in marriage on November 17 in Memphis, Tenn. The double ring srevice was used by the Rev. Joseph Owen in the First Methodist church.

Helen McCante, SK 1/c, was maid of honor, and Elwin T. Roberts, SK 1/c, was best man. All were in uniform. The bride's corsage was of gardenias and tube roses, while the flowers of her attendant were white carnations and tuberoses.

Following the ceremony, an informal reception was held in the Balinese room of the Hotel Claridge in Memphis.

SUGAR GROVE

Sugar Grove, Nov. 26—Sixty relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Allenson, recently met at their new home for a house warming party. A very pleasant evening was spent and Mrs. Arthur Carlson of Jamestown presented a program. Several hymns were sung and prayer was offered by Mrs. G. Johnson. Mrs. Gust Hjelm gave a reading "Home" by Edgar Guest. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Peterson sang a duet. A reading, "Tommy's Prayer", was given by Miss Britta Hjelm. Mrs. Anna Johnson and Mrs. Elsie Reimer sang a duet. Remarks were given by Mrs. M. Engelstad. Mrs. Theodore Allenson and Mrs. Carl Allenson. The group joined in repeating the Twenty Third Psalm, and Major G. Johnson of the Jamestown Salvation Army, spoke and Billy, Carl, Carolyn and Anne Allenson sang. Mr. and Mrs. Allenson were presented a purse of money to be used for something for the new home and the program closed with prayer. Delicious refreshments were served. Preceding the program and as an accompaniment to the group singing the Johnson family provided instrumental music. The guests came from Jamestown, Lakewood and Sugar Grove and Mrs. Gust Hjelm and Mrs. Arthur Carlson planned the delightful affair.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McIntosh had as their guests for the Thanksgiving weekend: Mr. and Mrs. Ray Seamens and sons Charles and Howard, Greensburg, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. James Martin, daughter Mary and son Robert of Niagara Falls, N. Y.

The Women's Misionary Society of the Free Methodist church, met at the home of Mrs. Russell Gustafson, Wednesday afternoon. The group packed a box to send to a young married couple at the Spanish Mission, at Tampa, Fla. in which Miss Ruthe Landin is the worker in charge.

Miss Edna Nelson of Sugar Grove, who will spend the winter in St. Petersburg, Fla., was a recent guest of Miss Landin, at Tampa.

YMCA Call To Membership Crowned By Decisive Victory With 647 Members Reported

Decisive victory crowned the efforts of the enthusiastic workers in the Y. M. C. A. Call to Membership when the campaigners made their final report last night. When all reports were in, the figures on the blackboard revealed that 238 members had been signed up in the last two days of the campaign, for a grand total of 647 members. The goal of this year's Call was 600.

When, at the close of Monday night's meeting, the "Y" campaign workers saw that the large number of 191 members were needed for victory, they went to work with a determination that brought the splendid results reported above. The fine spirit of this organization of 80 officers and team members was in evidence throughout the eight days of the campaign and they have earned high commendation for their notable achievement.

In behalf of the directors and the staff, W. Howard Alexander and Ralph H. Wagner expressed their deep appreciation for the excellent work done. William E. Yeager, as a director and commander of the Navy division, also extended his congratulations and thanks. Donald H. Mowell, commander of the Army division had been called out of town just before the closing session, but sent a message of appreciation to his five teams.

Alan Templeton and his strong team carried away highest honors. Templeton himself won first prize with a total of 1860 points to his credit, and his team carried off first honors with 96 members reported for 7730 points. Perhaps there was something prophetic in the number assigned to this team: No. 1. The same thought can be carried a bit farther, since teams No. 2 and No. 3 came through in second and third places. No. 2, captained by A. L. Rasmussen, piled up 6085 points, with 62 members. No. 3 team, Grover Lind at the held, was a very close third with 5955 points and 73 members. F. A. Keller's No. 7 team, which had been holding second place through the first two reports, wound up in fourth place with 5650 points and 76 members.

The No. 1 team, of which Mr. Templeton was captain, was made up of Robert Amero, E. C. Christensen, James Frantz, Wayne Furman, Red Johnson, Carl Peterson and Harry Summers. The work of Harry Summers deserves special commendation, as he gave his captain a close race for first honors, getting 1450 points.

Other awards made for outstanding achievement included a second prize for total point, which went to Fred Keller with 1845 points. Fred Keller also was highest in points for new members, with 820 points, but since no one was eligible for two prizes, the second highest, John Hanna, with 800 points, was given the first award; and David C. Levine the second prize for 720 new member points. Awards were made to Fern Mostert and Clara Ullrich as captain and high point scorer, respectively, for the one women's team.

Thanks of the Y. M. C. A. and the campaign workers were extended to the following firms for the added interest through prizes offered for individual production: Danielson-Carter, Emblem Oil Company, Kinnear's Stationery, the Style Shop, and Geracimos Company. Presentation of awards was by Howard Alexander, general chairman of the campaign, who presided at the meeting. The opening prayer was given by Rev. William T. Lane. Dining room service was capably rendered by a group of ladies of the First Presbyteriain church, assisted by Mrs. Homer Andrews, of the First Methodist.

In all fairness it should be pointed out that every team in the campaign did a very good job. All could not be out in front in points achieved, but they all did a creditable job, not one of them "falling down" in any sense of the word. It was pointed out to the assemblage that the women's team deserved special mention, since their job was for obvious reasons more difficult to perform, and they made a splendid showing. The teams not mentioned before, together with their achievement follows in order of standing:

No. 6, Harold Flowers captain, 77 members and 5540 points; No. 10, E. H. Leffard and David Levine, co-captains, 66 members and 5175 points; No. 4, George Frantz, captain, 54 members and 4550 points; No. 9, William Hill, captain, 49 members for 3965 points; No. 5, Charles Koebley captain, 44 members and 3689 points; No. 8, Fern Mostert captain, with 51 members and 3600 points.

Recognition of the helpful work of three aides in the campaign—David Smith, Lloyd Shirk and Katherine Bauer—was extended by the campaign leaders.

Still another Y. M. C. A. Membership Campaign has been an outstanding success, thanks to a fine-spirited group of citizens who have given unselfishly of their service, and to a community which appreciates the opportunities afforded by the "Y" and the constructive service it renders.

The Fourth Mrs. Baker

By Ernestine Adams — AP Newsfeatures

Chapter 12

[Sunday 1:03 p.m. to 5:37 p.m.]

MOORE was alone and looked rather wild when he took off his hat.

"I can't find him nowhere. He musta skipped."

"Why didn't you call up and tell us instead of coming up here? Jerry demanded angrily. "You know damn well you've been followed."

"It was madam's orders."

"Yeah. You want to give the police a line without cracking. You probably picked up a trail just so they'd know Mrs. Baker was here. If you can't do better than that I'll sell 'em a job on you that'll stick."

Moore's fleshy jaw shook and he ran the back of his hand across his mouth.

"Honest, Mr. Hayes, I never thought. I'll be more careful next time. Honest, I will. I never done it but them cops are after me till I can't think."

Jerry had cooled down when he answered.

"Okay. Get back home and stay there and watch out for Mrs. Baker or I'll have your gizzard."

Moore didn't wait. He clamped his hat on and slipped out the door.

"I never trusted that dope. Watch him, Julia." He came back and sat down again.

"Hank must have got the wind up. If the police don't find him no one is going to spill that rescue story."

"JERRY, there is something else. Robey was planning a coup last night. Do you know what it was?"

The fingers around her glass were white as she waited for his answer. A lock of hair had fallen over his forehead and he appeared to be weighing how much he should tell her.

"He must have given you some hint," she persisted.

"What he said was crazy. It couldn't have meant anything."

"What was it, Jerry?"

"He said he was having four Mrs. Bakers."

"Three," she corrected.

"He said four." He raised his eyes to hers. "And Virginia's life is an open column."

"Perhaps he meant to marry her next," she said slowly. "He was engaged to Grace before he divorced Alma."

She stood up and pulled on her gloves.

"I have to go. I'll call if anything happens."

Jerry rose and looked down at her, his lanky shoulders drooped forward.

"When you get back act dumb. Let 'em do their own figuring."

"Oh, Jerry! I'm not guilty. They won't arrest me."

"Won't they? You are an innocent. You are the only one in the bunch who hasn't some pretty powerful friends. You're perfect for the casting. Can't you see? Designing Cinderella marries the Prince for fame and money. She dumps Prince out the window and keeps the coin."

"All right. I'll be dumb."

WHEN the taxi drew near her apartment house she saw the place was surrounded by curiosity seekers and reporters.

In the crushing bedlam that followed her appearance in front of the building she was finally rescued by Inspector Venable. He took her by one arm and another man, squat and heavy with thick gray eyebrows, took the other. In the elevator Venable introduced him as Police Commissioner Hickerson.

The two hours that followed up in the library left Julia in horrified bewilderment. She tried to answer their questions calmly but they hammered at her until her voice rose in replies that sounded hysterical. Venable said little but the Commissioner and two other men took turns throwing questions at her with implied meanings which she was too confused to grasp. A stenographer worked quietly back of her and the fact that her words were being recorded added further to her panic.

"I think that's enough for now," she heard Venable say at last. Crushed as she felt, she noticed the stony glance the Commissioner turned on him.

But they did go and leave her. Moore brought a tray of food to her bedroom where she lay on the chaise lounge. There was soup and salad and crusty toast. She felt better after she had eaten. She rang for Moore.

"Moore, when you take the tray back, stay in the kitchen and warn me if any one comes in the back."

"Yes, madam."

As soon as he had left she went into the salon and walked to the fireplace. Quickly she took out the glass coals that lay in the silver net of the circular hole and piled them on one of the nearby sofas. She picked out a small piece of paper that had rested flat against the bottom of the fireplace.

Scarcely glancing at it she stuck it in the top of a stocking and hastily laid the coals back in the net. In spite of her care they made a tinkling sound like the one she had heard the night Robey came back from meeting the woman in the red hat.

Not until she was back in her room did she look at her prize. At first she wore a puzzled frown. It was a piece about four inches square which had been torn on the left side and the bottom.

"This is to certify that," read the old English type. Then written in precise script:

"Robert C. Baker
and
Adelaide Campbell"

The only other words were in type again:

"Have This Day Been Joined in Holy Matrimony"

On the side were the figures "5-8-32" in pencil, evidently what Robey had put there and seemed to be the date—of the marriage, she supposed.

For a long time she sat there. She wondered why there was any secrecy about a marriage when Robey had had several and had made no effort to conceal any of them. Then she realized that one thing could make the marriage important—if Adelaide Campbell was alive and there had been no divorce.

[Sunday 5:37 p.m. to 7 p.m.]

EIGHT years before Robey had made his first success on the stage and he had been in the public eye ever since Julia knew that from his scrap books. But that was in the fall season following the date on the marriage certificate. The first marriage Julia knew of was to Alma who had been the sensation of the year at her first appearance in the Metropolitan. The wedding had made splashing headlines. From Frank's remarks she gathered that Alma had cared more for her actor husband than for her own career. Robey had divorced her in Paris two years later and had married Grace. Their battles in public made interesting reading, too, including the fight in the divorce courts of Reno. Grace had, in the end, won a large alimony after Robey's attorneys had suddenly withdrawn.

All these things stood in her mind and she tried to fit them to the scrap of paper she held. If the certificate was genuine—and why else would Robey, with his closeness with money, pay for it?—it might mean that the actor's other three marriages were bigamous. Or this one might have been annulled. Or the woman could have obtained a divorce with no publicity from Robert C. Baker because Robey never used his legal name.

But this was the fourth Mrs. Baker! This was what Jerry had told her about. Did that mean that Adelaide Campbell was the woman in the red hat? But she had not come to the party.

She heard the chimes of the doorbell. She jumped up and looked about in sudden panic. She must hide the piece of paper. There was no time to decide where a good place would be. She picked up a tall cylindrical shaped perfume bottle of glazed blue china and carried it to the bathroom and dumped the contents into the basin. It was a heavy oriental scent which Robey had bought for her and she had never used it. The odor was sickening and she turned the water on to wash it away. There was no time to dry the bottle thoroughly. She rolled the paper and put it inside and hurried back into the bedroom to place the bottle where it had stood before. She was back on the chaise when a tap sounded on the door from the salon.

"Come in," she called and breathed deeply to quiet her jumping nerves.

Virginia opened the door and stood against it looking like an exotic model in a full skirted black dress that showed most of her long slender legs. The square neck had a fold of white held with turquoise clasps. She wrinkled her long thin nose.

"That scent doesn't match your personality."

"I spilled the stuff. Sit down, Ginnie. I'm glad you're here." Her voice sounded effusive.

The girl sat in a slipper chair near the bed and looked at Julia critically.

"Instead of a famous beauty you might be a subject for Coney Island waxworks. It's a wonder to me they haven't arrested you for lack of makeup."

"Why didn't they arrest me? I thought they were going to."

"Because, darling, you're so gorgeous they'd have to have moving pictures of the crime to convict you. Silly, isn't it? But if you don't fly into another dress and wash that dead look off your face, they'll get you yet. If I were on trial I'd rather have a first rate dress designer than a good lawyer. Frank is out there talking to Moore. We are going to lay down tactics, Frank says. Whatever that is. The police are being barraged with fan mail. Every one wants to help hang the one who put the finger on his favorite actor."

"Robey —" Julia shuddered. "Then they know it's murder?"

"Well, what do you think? The police haven't informed the newspapers but the newspapers are telling the police. Haven't you read them?" At Julia's negative nod she went on. "Some one got hold of the story about the cop's head being bashed in last night. Frank has been up to headquarters and he has also been talking to Simon Lillie."

"Who is he?"

"My God, Julie, where have you lived all your life? He's the best criminal lawyer in New York. Now look, you. Get going. Get in the tub and I'll pick out your clothes."

WHEN she appeared in the salon later no one could see how she fought to preserve her calm.

Frank rose from the sofa on the far side of the fireplace where he sat with Virginia and came toward her. He took both her hands and she knew that he had cast her in the role of bereaved widow.

"I know it's horrible for you."

He led her to the opposite sofa and went back to his place by Virginia. He leaned forward and his dark eyes bored into Julia's above the table between them.

"I'm doing everything I can, my dear. I hope the police weren't too troublesome this afternoon. I talked to Lillie and he is ready to step in if you want him."

"Why should I? I'm not guilty." Her chin set stubbornly.

"But, Julie, dear, why did you go to Jerry? The Commissioner has hit on the idea that you're in love with him and that the two of you were in a plot."

"Oh, they can't think there is anything between Jerry and me! It's too ridiculous!"

"But why did you go?"

After a slight hesitation she decided to tell Frank the truth. There was no mistaking the surprise on both the faces opposite her. When they got the whole story Frank got up and began walking back and forth across the floor.

"I don't know whether to tell the police or not."

Frank drew his brows together.

"It couldn't help and it might put you in a worse light. Believe me, I'd tell you to if I didn't think it would confuse the whole issue. I think I know already who killed him."

Carver House Shows Effect of Remodeling

Workmen at the Carver hotel who have been busy for weeks on the upper floors of the hotel applying paint and paper have wrought a transformation in the place that is most marked. Dozens of the rooms have been put in excellent shape and the halls are vastly changed in appearance with light, clean paper applied. Work of making new draperies for every room in the hotel is under way and thousands of yards of material are being used. New linens have also been ordered and every effort is being made to secure new bed spreads, etc. New floor coverings are also being sought to replace many that had been worn almost threadbare.

A shop complete with mechanical saws, etc., has been set up in the basement of the hotel and work of getting out the fine lumber that will go into the trim for the cocktail lounge and bar is under way. Skilled workmen are handling the job and most of the fixtures will be built in the hotel shop ready for installation.

The former writing room of the hotel has been closed off and the old hotel private office has been torn out. A new private office has been installed using a portion of the former lounge. The writing room will be turned into a bar and the cocktail lounge will be installed in the former Brown building which is being annexed to the hotel proper.

Milburn Anderson, president of the Carver Hotel, Inc., states that "the task of getting the hotel into shape is a vast one. Crews of men have been busy ever since the new company took over the hotel. Effects of the hard work are now beginning to be seen and we are hopeful that when all is completed on the upper floors that we will be able to make the office and lounge room highly attractive with new lighting fixtures, etc., that will modernize the whole place".

LUDLOW

Ludlow, Nov. 26—Regular services were held in Moriah Lutheran on Sunday at 9:30 a. m. with the sermon text being "When The End Comes", the sermon given by the Rev. Hans Pearson. The choir anthem was "With Me Abide". Announcement was made of an open house to be held in the Sheffield parsonage on Friday evening at 8 o'clock for the entire Ludlow congregation and friends. This will be sponsored by the Missionary Society and the proceeds will be given to the Post War Emergency Fund. Refreshments will be served so members are asked to bring either cookies or sandwiches. Cars will meet at the church at 7:30 p. m. and there will be room for anyone desiring to go. Announcement was also made of the receipt of $1004.00 for the Building Fund during the recent drive.

The Covenant mission held regular services at 6 p. m. with the Rev. Wilbert Nyline of Kane delivering a sermon in Swedish.

Thanksgiving services were held in the Moriah Lutheran at 10 o'clock with the Rev. Hans Pearson delivering the sermon. "Thanks Unto The Lord". The choir anthem was, "Praise Ye The Father" by Gounod. There was a very large attendance and the collection of $37.00 will be given to the Children's Home of Jamestown.

Mr. and Mrs. John G. Johnson entertained on Monday evening at their home for the members of the Every Member Canvass Committee of Moriah Lutheran with ten present including Rev. and Mrs. Hans Pearson of Shieffield. Details of the Budget Committee were reported and it was announced that the obligation for the repairs to the church had been achieved. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

The first four grades of the Ludlow school gave a Thanksgiving program at 1 o'clock on Wednesday with the entire school and some parents present. The program opened with "The Star-Spangled Banner" sung by the assembly and continued with a Thanksgiving song by five little girls of the first and second grades, "John Brown and Ten Indians" by boys of the first and second grades, "Over The River and Through the Woods" by children of the third and fourth grades, and a play entitled "The First Thanksgiving" by members of the fourth grade. A splendid old New England setting and costumes were used which were made by Mrs. Julius Swanson, fourth grade teacher. A short talk was given by Mr. Waite, supervising principal, and an orchestra number was given under the direction of Mrs. Emil Nelson. All present enjoyed the little program.

Miss Annette Palmer celebrated her birthday on Thanksgiving Day with all of her cousins present including Fred Sapper, Jr., of Erie and Emelia and Robert Olson of Pittsburgh. Her brother, William also celebrated his birthday during the week. They are the children of Lt. (jg) Morris Palmer who is now stationed in Guam in the Naval Personnel Dept.

Fear of an Epidemic Causes Worry to Nagasaki Officials

By HAL BOYLE

Nagasaki, Japan—(AP)—Fear of an epidemic disease is causing more worry to American health authorities here than any possible after effects from radio-active remnants of the war's second atomic bomb.

It is due largely to the entreprise of a young Massachusetts doctor that no widespread contagion has radiated from this wasteland of death and devastation, whene science on Aug. 9 confirmed the atomic age, born three days before in blasted Hiroshima.

"Whatever we may feel about helping the Japanese, we have to take every step to protect our own troops," said Capt. Herbert Horne, Jr., former Lowell, Mass., and New York City medical center physician.

"Any civilian epidemic would endanger about 20,000 Second Marine division men in southern Kyushu."

As chief health officer for the American military government in this area, it was his job to prevent any such outbreaks after his arrival Sept. 25. He found himself without adequate medical supplies and with little Japanese medical talent.

"Everybody was still dazed and disorganized," he said. "All but four doctors on the Nagasaki medical university factulay and student members of the third and fourth year classes were wiped out by the bomb. It exploded only a few hundred yards from the university and its hospital. Every patient, every nurse and every doctor inside the hospital were killed, as well as every first and second year medical student."

Horne estimated that the bombing cost 60,000 to 80,000 lives.

Although the bomb's fierce heat had powdered the paper records in the Nagasaki hospital, and melted windows and medicine bottles, it left intact many medical instruments in the basement.

In an adjoining building it had miraculously left intact many mattresses and iron cots. Horne appropriated them.

Nagasaki now has electrical service and a safe water supply—the gas plant was demolished—but flies are thick over ruined areas where the stench of trapped bodies still is strong. All bodies that could be found were pied together and burned with gasoline, a practice the Japanese, themselves, initiated.

"We are afraid of typhoid and diphtheria epidemics," Horne said, "though the disease rate is currently low."

Venereal disease is extremely prevalent and a real health menace to the troops. Horne said the Geisha houses were closed after the examination of 337 prostitutes disclosed that 81 per cent had syphilis.

"We also found, in an examination of a cross section of the population, that approximately 51 per cent were similarly infected," the doctor said.

State Has the Smallest Spud Crop In Years

Commercial potato growers of Pennsylvania, after struggling through one of the most damaging blight and bad weather seasons experienced in many years, have been well repaid for their efforts of persistent spraying by realizing yields which in most cases were higher than expected, State Secretary of Agriculture Miles Horst said following a Federal-State preliminary survey of 1945 spud production on Pennsylvania farms.

This year's Keystone State potato crop is now estimated at 17,515,000 bushels, lowest since 1901, the Secretary reported. This is 1,625,000 below 1944 production and 4,803,000 bushels less than the 1934-1943 average of 22,318,000. Wet weather, which resulted in heavy vine growth and spread of disease, was responsoble for an average yield of only 113 bushels per acre, 3 less than last year. Due to shortage of labor and machines growers planted only 157,000 acres this year, 10,000 less than 1944.

Small, unsprayed acreage became badly blighted during the growing season and some fieled to return the value of the seed. Digging was greatly delayed by October rains and in some northwestern areas farmers had to dig their crops out of the mud.

In the Cambria-Somerset area fair to good yields were obtained where sprayed. Fields on gravel or well-drained soil, where sprayed, turned up good yields or high quality potatoes in the Lehigh-Northampton area. Potatoes in the Gegins Valley of Schuylkill county yielded better than ever, graded out well and were of excellent quality. Throughout the other counties, and in the southeast in particular, crops were good in some sections and not so good in others, but generally infected by blight, and by rot on low ground.

The percentage of U. S. No. 1 grade from the commercial potato survey showed 72 per cent, compared with 70 last year.

Baby Season Again Arrives In Hollywood Movie Colony

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood—(AP)—In most towns it wouldn't be very remarkable if such names as Mrs. Felix Jackson, Mrs. Vincent Minnelli, Mrs. William Howard and Mrs. John Payne were having babies, But in Hollywood it's news.

The expectant mothers are otherwise known as Deanna Durbin, Judy Garland, Dorothy Lamour and Gloria De Haven and the fact that they are having babies upsets a whole industry. Hollywood runs in fads and this season it seems to be raising families. That throws a wrench into production schedules and film bosses tear their hair over what actress will be available for pictures.

Maria Montez and Brenda Marshall are also on the expectant list and Veronica Lake gave birth to a boy last month.

In the meantime, local gabbers are busily predicting motherhood for such brides as Betty Hutton, June Allyson and Faye Emerson, none of which has been confirmed. One earnest columnist predicted a birth for a star next August. Hollywoodians counted on their fingers and wondered.

Also in the baby dept.—It's plain to see who's the boss in the Rita Hayworth-Orson Welles home. It's their daughter Rebecca.

Orson was all set to leave for New York next month to begin the Cole Porter musical, "Around the World in 80 Days." But Rita said no. She wanted the family to spend Christmas at home.

"Rebecca won't even know what's going on," she told me on the "Gilda" set, "but at least she'll know in future years that she spent her first Christmas with her mother and father at home."

Rita was asked if her daughter would be an actress. Her answer: "What else?"

Lana Turner will play a battling woman in "Frankie From Frisco", a James Cain story about railroad building in 1865 .. . Glenn Ford appears set to play "Pal Joey" for Columbia . . . Frank Sinatra will erect a five-story Frank Sinatra building in Beverly Hills. I wonder if it will be bobbysoxer proof. . . . Howard Hughes and Hunt Stromberg are scurrying to get their Jane Russell pictures, "The Outlaw" and "young Widow," to the public first. Hughes is in the lead with a February release.

Here is the type of hand that wins championships. The national tournament at the Hotel Chelsea in Atlantic City next week will in all likelihood produce several hands of this sort.

Take a quick glance at the hand. If you were told to play it at six-odd, would you prefer spades or diamonds?

The average bridge player would too often play this hand at spades, which would be held to five, while six diamonds is cold. That was the contract arrived at by Waldemar von Zedtwitz and Samuel Katz in the recent Metropolitan Tournament in New York.

After East cashed the king of hearts, he shifted to a club. Von Dedtwitz went up with the ace, took three rounds of trumps, and discarded good spades. The nine of clubs was ruffed with his last trump.

Give Your Ex-Serviceman Leisure Togs or Pleasure Equipment for Christmas

All set for the happiest Christmas since the war began, this mother and daughter have bought for their returning serviceman all the things he'll need for civilian life. Besides the shirts, sweaters, ties, lounging slippers, toiletries they are packing in gay wrappings, there's some new sports equipment for that holiday they're planning.

By KATHARINE SHERWOOD
NEA Service Correspondent

NEW YORK—The first man on your Christmas list this year is the ex-serviceman, and for his re-entry into civilian life he will like gifts that fill out his civilian wardrobe or that will go with him into the business world. All men, whether they be ex-servicemen or weary businessmen, will appreciate gifts that increase the pleasure of their leisure time.

Clothing stores have no stock reserves for the holidays, and it may take a bit of time and watchfulness to get shirts, pajamas or underwear in correct sizes. There will be less difficulty finding wool lounging robes, short, looze leisure coats, rayon sports shirts and colorfull neckties.

The dude in him will revel in the brisk tweedy scents of foamy shaving soap and lotions. Leather cases for discharge papers, and memento cases with attached scrapbooks for service souvenirs are popular gifts.

OUTDOORSY

If he relaxes best in the fresh air of wind-swept places, he will like the new weatherproof nylon rain outfits, zippered buck suede jackets, warm and flashily designed sweaters, or a capeskin-lined tweed golf jacket. For the camper, there are sturdy cook stoves, and a lightweight aluminum canoe for easy carrying. And for the golfer who caddies for himself there is a golf cart that keeps clubs in an upright position and has a big compartment for balls and odds and ends.

TOOL FOR TINKERER

Maybe he prefers to putter in his workshop. A new tool for the amateur carpenter is an electrically-powered instrument with 24 interchangeable machine tool heads for precision work.

Start him on a new hobby with a model airplane, which is powered by a rocket-gas motor and retrieved with wires. New, also, are the huge English box kites capable of soaring two miles in the air, and requiring plenty of skill and strength to handle. Should his pleasures be more sedentary, a moderately priced whittling set will keep his hands busy while he philosophizes with his friends.

More people were killed in their homes than were killed in all railroad accidents in the United States last year.

If you lived on the moon, you'd see the earth in the sky just as we now see the moon, only it would be larger and would never set.

LIKE MAGIC—the Want Ads pull Big Dollars out of small articles.

Their Favorite Drink Is MILK!

They love it—they thrive on it—there's hardly a child who will refuse a glass of milk. Keep them satisfied, happy and healthy with our wholesome, creamy, rich milk. A glass at each meal and with their afternoon snack will put roses on their cheeks, a sparkle in their eyes, keep their bodies fit and their minds alert.

A Soaking in Japan

'AN UNFINISHED TASK

Tuberculosis has been called the unnecessary disease. For more than half a century, mankind has known its cause, its method of spread and the right way to prevent its occurrence, yet in Pennsylvania the deaths number about 4,000 annually. This is a record of failure.

A crucial fight is ahead during these peace years, for war and its aftermath breed TB. Because of the stealthy character of the disease the real effect of war conditions may not be revealed for several years.

This is a war that must go on.

FINDING TB

Just 50 years ago the X-ray was discovered. Today the X-ray is used to detect tuberculosis in its early stages.

WAKE UP YOUR DIGESTION BELOW THE BELT

This Kind of Laxative Help Often Needed When Lower Sluggishness Causes Gassy, Bloating Misery

When most food leaves the stomach, it is by no means fully digested. It is in the 28 feet or more of intestines that the greater part of digestion is done. When we get constipated these later stages of digestion often slow down. Then food is apt to ferment and decay excessively in the bowels. As a result we may feel full of gassy bloating and other indigestion miseries. That's when you need Beecham's Pills. They work to relieve this congestion of waste and encourage the welcome elimination which helps promote better digestion below the belt. Ask your druggist for gentle, all-vegetable Beecham's Pills today. Caution: Use only as directed. 25¢.

THE Christmas season is under way. There's not a minute to waste. Christmas lists should be complete—shopping tours started. Now before the rush—before merchandise has been picked through—is the time to make selections. For courteous, efficient service and the best choice of gifts—"SHOP EARLY!"

Joe E. Brown Plans Career Including Six-Foot Rabbit

Hollywood—(AP)—Now that the war is over, Joe E. Brown is again looking after his own career, and his plans for the future involve a six-foot rabbit.

During the war years, Joe made only one picture and devoted the rest of his time to entertaining American troops in all parts of the world. His war record exceeds even that of the indefatigable Hope. But now Joe has to look after himself, too.

"I think there is a definite place in the world for the fool—the guy who makes people laugh," he told me. "Some people have gotten the idea that I have become serious. I am serious about anything concerning the welfare of our servicemen. But I'm still in the business of being funny."

Joe is going to resume that business in "Harvey," the Mary Chase play of the drunk and the imaginary six-foot rabbit, which began a new career for Frank Fay. Joe opens in Columbus Dec. 21 and then plays Cincinnati, St. Louis, Kansas City, San Francisco and Los Angeles. Before opening in Chicago next September, he'll have time to do a picture. His services should be in demand because of the ready-made G. I. audience he commands.

Al Jolson's plan to retire to Florida next year have aroused bitter comment from the Los Angeles chamber of commerce, or so it is reported. Al, who is overseeing production of "The Al Jolson Story," has purchased the Lord Tarleton Hotel at Miami, Fla., and intends to spend his future years on the southern sands.

"I think Los Angeles is a great place," he said, "but I have a soft spot for Miami. It's more convenient to New York, for one thing."

SEND A SMALL GIFT ALONG WITH YOUR CHRISTMAS CARD

(Lord & Taylor)

Tuck a surprise in your greeting card.

By ROSELLEN CALLAHAN
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK—This year there are lots of inexpensive answers to that Christmas puzzler: What to buy as a small remembrance for those friends to whom you want to send a little something more than a holiday greeting.

Main floor counters are beginning to fill with useful novelties small enough to slip in with the Christmas card, several of which are sketched here. A pair of stockings—nylons, of course, if they're available—is always welcome. A flat, folding pocket-size picture frame, which can be opened up and slipped in an envelope, comes in bright-colored leather for women, and dark colors for men. The leather address book shown is also thin enough to be tucked into a wallet.

'KERCHIEF FLOWERS

For the glamor girl, why not send her one of those embroidered or beaded velvet headbands, or a sequin-studded net for her evening hair-do?

No one ever has enough scarves or ascots, and this season there are so many new ways to wear them. Nor can anyone have too many handkerchiefs. One store is packaging them in colored gift cards which are painted with stems and leaves. When the four corners of the handkerchief are slipped through a slit above the stem, it gives the effect of a flower in full bloom.

Bill clips, sachet, barettes and sequin appliques are a few other suggestions sure to please.

NO WANTS too small or great that a Want Ad will not solve.

Notice For Patrons On Rural Routes

Postmaster J. K. Bell requests publication of the following information directed to patrons of the rural delivery service:

The Post Office Department has requested that the following regulations, covering the delivery of mail during the winter season, be brought to your attention.

After heavy snow storms it is the responsibility of the patron to see that the roads are put in such condition that it will be possible for carriers to travel them or if necessary to make arrangements with the proper highway officials to open the road. Failure to comply will cause a temporary suspension of mail service.

Patrons are also required to keep the approaches to their boxes clear of snow in order that delivery can be made without the carrier alighting from vehicle.

Carriers are expected to make every reasonable effort to serve their patrons but are not required to perform service on foot or make excessive detours. If through emergency such detours should become necessary patrons should temporarily relocate their baxes; receive their mail through the boxes of other patrons, or make some other arrangement for its delivery until the roads are open for travel.

Thanks in anticipation of your cooperation.

Respectfully yours,
J. K. Bell, Postmaster.

Resourceful Hunter

Ed Bimber, of whom there is no more truthful angler and nimrod, brings a real bear story from the deep woods. While Ed has never been accused of drawing the long, bow old hunters are just a wee bit skeptical of the tale.

But, according to Ed, a hunter entered the woods to bring home a rug to place in front of his fireplace, and he diligently hunted for a huge bear. Finally, he spotted a bruin carrying a regal-sized rug on his back. Carefully taking aim at the bear he blazed away. The bullet hit the bear, severely wounding him, and causing his dander to rise to 1008. He started after the hunter, who dropped his gun and sought a tree. Hastily clambering up out of the bear's territory the hunter was safe. But the bear continued to surge around the tree emitting most lusty growls. Finally, after a two hour perch in the bare boughs where the winds whistled and chilled the hunter's marrow bones, the huntsman determined that something should be done. With his hunting knife, he cut a small bough of the tree and, with a heavy leather shoe string, fashioned a bow. Then taking his hunting knife for an arrow the hunter awaited until open mouthed the bear reared up beside the tree. Twang! the bow let go and the knife sped its way into the open mouth of the bear. The animal coughed and red blood flowed from the wound in his throat. Suffering great pain, the bear started and tore through the woods while the hunter, stiff and sore after hours in the tree clambered down, retrieved his rifle, and sped for home.

UNRRA Faces Staggering Task In Its Efforts to Aid Revival of Agriculture

UNRRA seeks to supplement stores of food exported to the needy millions with food to be raised on restored farms. Here Malayan natives get their rations of rice distributed by the relief organization.

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

Washington, Nov. 28—While the desperate struggle goes on all over the world to feed starving millions this winter, UNRRA and the stricken countries are fighting just as desperately to grow a big enough crop for next winter's needs. And far beyond that, the Farm and Agricultural Organization of the United Nations Organization is taking shape under its new Director-General, Sir John Orr.

Not only did the war cause the present food crisis but its damage to the world's agriculture industry will be felt for years. The job of agricultural rehabilitation is staggering.

UNRRA has already shipped more than $69,000,000 worth of tractors, seeds, horses, mules, cows, and fertilizer into occupied countries to help agricultural production. Lack of funds has forced it to give up much of the agricultural rehabilitation program in lieu of supplying food directly.

In addition UNRRA experts are trying to eliminate certain insect pests which increased during the war and spread disease among cattle and crops. They plan to bring in chickens to restock almost non-existant poultry stocks.

England, Australia, Belgium, France and the other countries not aided by UNRRA are also struggling to patch up the war damage to their farming. Most of them report fair progress on long range planning but aren't too optimistic about next year's harvest.

Orr startled England in the early twenties by claiming that a new kind of starvation was ravaging its people. It wasn't starvation caused by hunger. It was caused by lack of vitamins. He correlated the high infant mortality rate in England with it. He demonstrated all kinds of other evil effects. He led the fight in Britain for better distribution of vitamins as well as bread. This is the essence of his plan for FAO.

So that the farmer will always get a fair price for his crop, Orr proposes a world wheat pool. When the market price goes below a certain figure, he says, it should be bought by an international organization and kept in the pool for distribution when there is a need for it. He would have the same operation for the world rice market.

Games Slated In City Loop This Evening

City League cagers move into the second night of action tonight on the YMCA court with Bakers and Blomquists, two kid outfits, clashing in the 7:30 prelim and the Struthers-Wells outfit battling the Youngsville Skating Rink at 8:30 in the nightcap.

Penn Bottle, of Sheffield, and O'Connors, also of Sheffield, are currently leading the loop after the inaugural last Monday night. The Bottlers defeated Sylvania, and O'Connors edged Times-Mirror.

The Baker-Blomquist tilt will be a close bettle between the two youthful quintets, and Struthers is rated a favorite over the Rink combine from Youngsville.

The Struthers outfit, victorious in its first game last Saturday, is rated as the "team to beat" in the loop. "Rabbit" Swanson's proteges copped league honors last season and are on the beam to repeat. The addition to last year's team of "Elmo" Wolfe, Ray Ritchie, and Louis Check makes the crew a potential winner. However, the Sylvanians and Penn Bottle will be right in the thick of the battle by mid-season.

Games will start promptly at 7:30 and 8:30.

Irish and Gobs In Battle At Chicago

Chicago, Nov. 29—(AP)—Notre Dame and Great Lakes' Bluejackets will settle their wartime football rivalry—it's unlikely they will play next year—at the Naval Training Station Saturday before 25,000.

The game, midwestern gridiron finale, will be fourth of a series now deadlocked at a victory apiece and a tie.

In 1942 the two teams fought to a 13-13 draw in Soldier Field, Chicago. The following year the Tars upset the Irish at Great Lakes, 19-14, on a 46-yard touchdown pass from Steve Lach to Paul Anderson with 28 seconds left to play. The Irish avenged the loss last year with a 28-7 triumph at South Bend.

The Bluejackets now hold five consecutive victories after losing three games and tying one.

Army's Coach Says "Forget The Records"

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 29—(AP)—You can throw all the records out the window and chalk up Saturday's Army-Navy game as a rough, tough struggle in which anything might happen.

That is, you can if you're inclined to believe Colonel Earl (Red) Blaik, head coach of the all-victorious Army team which has been established in most quarters as a four-touchdown favorite to sink the Navy, run its victory string to 18 and pocket the national championship of 1945.

With furrowed brow, Blaik will look you straight in the eye and tell you he rates the game a toss-up. And there's something about his straight-forward manner that makes you think he really means it.

"Navy has improved immeasurably the last three weeks," Blaik says, "particularly on the offense."

If pressed, Blaik will explain that the Middies are now using a tight T-formation about 80 percent of the time, whereas they formerly ran mostly from a split T.

Also, Army may be weakened somewhat by the illness of Arnold Tucker, first string quarterback, and Barney Poole, second string end—both in bed wit hmild cases of flu—and an injured shoulder received by Rop Rowan, chief understudy of fullback Doc Blanchard, in yesterday's practice.

But the principal equalizer in this game is the traditional rivalry existing between the two service academies, says Blaik, who believes past performances can be forgotten any time the two teams meet.

Middies May Lose Lineman For Saturday

By BUS HAM

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 29—(AP)—Navy had an added worry today—whether guard Jim Carrington will be able to play—as the Middies packed seabags to shove off for Philadelphia and Saturday's big game with Army.

Carrington had a temperature of 100 before yesterday's last long workout, and the Middies' coach, Commdr. Oscar E. Hagberg, sent him to bed.

Hagberg said he expects Carrington to be ready to start against Army but a further check will be made on his condition before squad leaves for Philadelphia this afternoon.

Should Carrington's illness hang on, Stan Turner, an experienced and able understudy, would be in line for the starting right guard position.

Two other Navy regulars, end Leon Bramlett and tackle Bo Coppedge, have shoulder injuries but Hagberg said they will "be in there Saturday."

Navy men said the Middies realize they must go out and score three or four times to stay in the running with Army's mighty machine.

"We've simply got to outscore them," they said.

SPORTS ACROSS PENNSYLVANIA

By Tom Shriver

By TOM SHRIVER

Harrisburg, Nov. 29—(AP)—It has been just eight months since Allentown and Donora met at Philadelphia . . . The state basketball championship was at stake . . . Allentown won the game in the last three seconds of play.

Now both clubs have swept through the football season to take major conference titles . . . Allentown won the east-central (Big Fifteen) championship . . . Donora carried off the WPIAL crown for the second straight year . . . A crowd of 10,000 saw the Dragons jolt New Kensington.

Reports are prevalent that the two schools may meet again . . . This time in a post-season war bond game to settle the state football championship . . . The Beaver Field Stadium at Penn State College has been selected as the site for the game. . . No date has been set.

Donora Coach Busy

Speaking of Donora, Jimmy Russell the coach of the Dragons is a busy man . . . He is off on a speaking tour with Oil City as one of his stops. . . He will be guest speaker at a banquet tendered the Oilers on Dec. 6. . . Rumors around the central part of the state indicate that Russell may be offered a new post next fall . . . One of the teams in the new Central Pennsylvania Football Conference is ready to make him an offer.

China Bowl Game

While the Army and Navy are clashing at Philadelphia on Saturday another service classic will be played nearly 12,000 miles away. . . . The site of the fray is Shanghai, China, and the army will face the Navy in a "China Bowl" football game . . . Coaching the Army will be L. Alex Atty, one of Johnstown High's outstanding linemen in 1933 . . . . He later played at West Virginia, and with the Cleveland Rams. . . .

Round The Gridiron

John A. Hoch asks for a better break for the Susquehanna Football League. . . . Composed of teams in the central part of the state . . . .The championship was won this year by Milton, with a record of 11 straight wins.

Fred Sherman, picked on last year's all-state team by the Associated Press led the Wyoming Valley Conference in points scored. . . . He tallied 73 markers for Hanover Township, scoring one touchdown in the upset of Dunmore.

GRANDSON OF QUEEN VICTORIA ARRESTED

Nuernberg, Germany, Nov. 29—(AP)—The U. S. military government at Coburg today announced the arrest of Karl Eduard, duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha and a grandson of Britain's queen Victoria.

The duke was president of the German Red Cross and had a general's rank in the Nazi storm troops.

The Nazis used English-born Karl Eduard as a show piece to demonstrate that the German aristocracy favored the Nazi regime.

The 61-year-old duke's estates have been confiscated.

luss by the code name "Otto," was taken from files of the German high command, assistant U. S. Prosecutor Sidney S. Alderman said. He then produced a directive from Marshal Werner von Blomberg in which he quoted the former secretary of war as saying "there might be special preparations for war against Austria."

The war plan was introduced over the objection of counsel for Col. Gen. Alfred Jodl, German army chief of staff, who said that the document showed only that the Wehrmacht was preparing "for all eventualities," including "war against Spain."

PUBLISHER DIES

Pottsville, Nov. 29—(AP)—Funeral services were being arranged today for Edmund L. Clifford, 76, general manager and treasurer of the Pottsville Republican, who died yesterday of cerebral thrombosis. Clifford, third member of the newspaper's executive staff to die this year, was connected with the Republican for 57 years. He had been in ill health for the past few months following an operation.

Marshall To Testify At Investigation

found by the Japanese after they took over the embassy following the Pearl Harbor attack.

"None whatsoever," the witness replied firmly.

In announcing Gen. Marshall's forthcoming appearance before the committe, Barkley said in a statement:

"The committee has been officially advised that General Marshall will be able to testify before the committee prior to his departure for China. As soon as his schedule in this respect is definite, he will advise the committee in ample time to arrange for his testimony before he leaves the country."

Barkley added the comment that Marshall, wartime chief of staff for the army, "is just as anxious to testify before the committee as the committee is to hear him."

An army board which investigated the Pearl Harbor disaster noted that a Dec. 7, 1941, alert order which Marshall telephoned to Gen. MacArthur in the Philippines was sent by commercial facilities to army commanders in Hawaii. It was delivered three hours after the Japanese attacked.

The fortnight-old Pearl Harbor investigation swung toward the military side today despite Republican protests against dropping state department angles "without notice."

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) told reporters he had been planning a line of questions for Max Hamilton, chief of the state department's far eastern division at the time of the Dec. 7, 1941, attack.

Yesterday, however, counsel for the senate-house committee announced that after brief testimony today by former Secretary Joseph C. Grew the witnesses would be Maj. Gen. Sherman Miles and Vice Adm. Theodore S. Wilkinson. They were chiefs of army and navy intelligence at the time of Pearl Harbor.

Asked what he planned to ask the military men, Ferguson—who has been the committee's most persistent questioner, replied:

"I don't know. I'm not ready. Counsel didn't inform us of the change. You reporters knew of it, but we didn't."

The Michigan senator agreed with other committee members, however, that Gen. George C. Marshall, wartime army chief of staff, ought to be heard before he leaves for his new post as special envoy to China.

The state department phase, despite long testimony by Hull, former Undersecretry Sumner Welles and Grew, still is far from over.

Grew, who has appeared daily since Monday, came back to finish his testimony, which enlarged yesterday on previous testimony concerning fuile efforts by Premier Prince Konoye in September, 1941, to arrange a meeting with the late President Roosevelt.

"We in Tokyo felt," the former ambassador said, "that if Prime Minister Konoye and President Roosevelt could meet face to face" something might be worked out to avert a clash.

Labor Chief Takes A Hand In G. M. Strike

sume negotiations promptly with the striking union. There was no advance hint as to what Wilson's reply would be.

Warren told reporters he was "hopeful" of getting the two parties together again and of finding a common ground for discussion of the union's 30 per cent wage increase demand.

The Ford Motor Co., also facing the 30 per cent demand, meanwhile pressed its counter-demand for "company security" with a definite proposal.

In its next contract with the UAW-CIO it suggested a provision entitling the company to deduct from union dues collected under the check-off system $5 for each day or fraction thereof any union member is idle in an unauthorized work stoppage.

Terming the proposal "unrealistic," Richard T. Leonard, UAW-CIO Ford director, said it would not guarantee an end to unauthorized strikes.

Shawmut Employes Have New Bosses

Pittsburgh, Nov. 29—(AP)—The 350 Shawmut Mining Co. coal diggers who have been on strike since last July seeking better living conditions in their company-owned villages today had two new "bosses."

Thomas C. Buchanan, of Beaver, former Pennsylvania Public Utility Commissioner, and Pittsburgh Certified Accountant Robert C. Sproul, Jr., were replacing Attorney John D. Dickson, of Wellsville, N. Y., to head the equity receivership of the Pittsburgh, Shawmut and Northern Railroad Co.

A spokesman for employes of the subsidiary mining company charged in court Tuesday that Dickson "couldn't take time to sit down with his men." And that they felt they could never deal with him.

The miners from Force and nearby town precipitated an investigation into the 40-year-old receivership. Their strike against what they termed "intolerable" sanitary conditions was two months old when they sought help from Attorney General Tom C. Clark.

(From Page One)

Washington, Nov. 29—(AP)—A drastic revision of American policy on Germany is expected by diplomatic officials to result from Byron Price's report to President Truman on the potential failure of present German administration.

One result of any such change may be to eliminate to a great extent the remaining influence of Henry Morgenthau, Jr., over German control policy.

With his "Morgenthau plan"—a so-called hard-peace plan—the former secretary of the treasury had great influence in the writing of the basic German policy directive. This is the directive—known as JCS 1067—under which the American military government in Germany functioned originally and from which it still draws considerable authority even though the Big Three declaration at Potsdam is now the basic guide.

Price recommended that JCS 1067, be rewritten "into a few hundred words of general principles."

He said its detailed provisions "fall with untold force upon General Eisenhower's officers, now long experienced in the actual business of dealing with the Germans."

Mr. Truman's special emissary also laid emphasis on the need to increase German production to a point at which it would help to make Germany self-sustaining by providing exports to match needed imports

Mr Truman transmitted the report to the secretaries of state, war and navy yesterday with a recommendation that they give it careful consideration with a view to taking joint action. He called Price, former director of censorship, "an able and experienced observer."

ASKS $500 FOR HOUND

Washington, Pa., Nov. 29—(AP)—Claiming that his foxhound, "Abner," was shot and killed while persuing a grey fox across a field, Robert K. Moore, Buffalo township sportsman yesterday filed suit for $500 damages against Samuel Post. Moore described his dog as having "great speed and skill" in the destruction of foxes.

SUGAR GROVE

Sugar Grove, Nov. 27—Mr. and Mrs. James A. McIntosh had open house Saturday evening, celebrating their silver wedding anniversary when seventy friends and relatives were entertained. Mrs. R. E. Seamens, of Greensburg, Pa., and Mrs. James Martin, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., sisters of Mr. McIntosh. Guests were present from Jamestown, Warren, Sugar Grove, Erie and the families of Mrs. Seamens and Mrs. Martin from Greensberg and Niagara Falls. The home decorations were pom poms in white, yellow and rose colors and were the gift of the couples daughter Mrs. Andrew Landolph of Beaver Dam, N. Y., who was unable to be present on account of illness in the family.

Buffet refreshments were served in the dining room by Mrs. Seamens and Mrs. Martin from a table centered with shaggy white chrysanthemums in a silver bowl and silver candle holders and white candles. Mrs. McIntosh of Warren presided at the table. The refreshments included a large three tiered decorated wedding cake. Mrs. Hobart Sanders assisted the hostesses. Mr. and Mrs. McIntosh received many nice gifts of silver and other gifts and many cards.

The Presbyterian Sunday School had their annual service last Sunday at which they presented gifts for a mission school at Bamberg, S. C. for colored children. Each class presented the gifts in Christmas wrappings, with appropriate thoughts including readings, music, prayer and scripture. This service is held each year on the Sunday following Thanksgiving, in order to have the gifts reach the school for Christmas.

The Girl and Boy Scouts enjoyed a skating party at the roller skating rink in Youngsville Thursday evening, with the girls leader Mrs. Scott Stuart, Jr., in charge. Transportation was provided by Gerald Miller, Francis Dowd, Donald Barrett, Clarence Sherrard and their wives and Mrs. A. A. Grant.

Mrs. Jesse Thompson, Mrs. F. A. Schoonover and Mrs. Roy Briggs, entertained at the former's home Friday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Carleton Foss, who was presented with lovely gifts including a baby bed for the baby boy James Arthur who recently came to make his home with Rev. and Mrs. Foss.

Fifteen women of the Methodist church enjoyed a delightful afternoon with Mrs. Lauren Hendershott, of Rockland, Pa., daughter of the hostess in charge of games and entertainment. Prizes won by the guests were in turn presented to the guest of honor. The gifts were presented in a unique manner, the group singing Showers of Bundles as the gifts were lowered by ribbons from the ceiling to Mrs. Foss who responded in a gracious minner. Dainty refreshments were served.

MARSHALL TO TESTIFY AT INVESTIGATION

ARRANGING TAKE-OFF

BULLETIN

Washington, Nov. 29—(AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall's last minute warning to the army commander in Hawaii to "be on the alert"—a message delivered after the attack on Pearl Harbor—was laid before congressional investigators today. A previous investigation by an army inquiry board showed that while Marshall called Gen. Douglas MacArthur in the Philippines by telephone to warn him on December 7, 1941, he dispatched a message to Lt. Gen. Walter C. Short, in command at Honolulu. The message showed it was dispatched from Washington at 12:18 p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

Army investigators learned it was received in Hawaii about 45 minutes later, less then an hour before the attack began at 7:50 a. m., Hawaiian time. Because of the attack it was not delivered to Short until about three hours later.

Washington, Nov. 29—(AP)—Congressional investigators learned today that Americal naval attaches in Japan and some districts of China were notified Dec. 4, 1941—three days before the Pearl Harbor attack—to destroy their codes.

Gerhard Gesell, committee counsel, put into the records of the senate-house committee investigating the attack a dispatch sent to the attaches Dec. 4 by Admiral Harold R. Stark, then chief of naval operations. Admiral Husband E. Kimmel, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet at the time was marked in for a copy.

The message instructed the attaches to "destroy this system" at their discretion and to report on their actions by replying with the words "jaberwock" and "boomerang."

This development in the inquiry came after Chairman Barkley announced that Gen. George C. Marshall, former army chief of staff, will be called as a witness before he leaves for China as President Truman's special envoy. Marshall is expected to depart in three or four days.

Gesell read the Stark message, copies of which he said arrived while the hearing was in progress, as Republican members pressed Joseph C. Grew, former ambassador to Japan, about the destruction of American code books and secret files in Tokyo.

Rep. Gearhart (R-Calif) asked if Grew was sure no American codes or other information were

Husband-Nabbing Case Is Settled

Chicago, Nov. 29—(AP)—Counsel for Mrs. Olive Means Daily, 45, Oil City, Pa., announced today an out-of-court settlement of two suits in which she alleged a former neighbor, Mrs. Marian Lammers Parker, 42, lured her husband, Wilfred J. Daily, 49, away from her and the four Daily children.

The attorney, Urban A. Lavery, announced the settlement in federal court. Judge John P. Barnes approved and consented to dismissal of the lawsuits.

Lavery in a statement to reporters said the settlement involved $101,000 divided this way: $36,000 cash paid by Mrs. Parker; a property settlement by Daily, guaranteed by the deposit of securities in trust and incidental cash, $30,000; existing life insurance on Daily's life irrevocably transferred to the Daily children with premium payment guaranteed, $35,000.

Lavery also announced that Mrs. Daily obtained a divorce from Daily yesterday in superior court here.

Dates Are Fixed For Next Year's Primary and Election

Harrisburg, Nov. 29—(AP)—Pennsylvania politics, always simmering, reach the boiling stage next year on May 21—primary election day—and November 5—general election day. Voters will choose a new governor and name a U. S. senator, members of congress and the legislature.

Those two dates are the only ones certain in the 1946 election calendar made public today by Charles M. Morrison, secretary of the commonwealth.

Any sudden decision by President Truman or congress to declare the war officially over may throw the rest of the dates in the calendar—for registration, circulation of nomination petitions, and scores of other technical steps in the election processes—out of kilter, the elections bureau explained today.

That is because wartime laws affecting the elections were made applicable only for the duration, largely because so many voters were in the armed services, and it was necessary to give plenty of time for getting military ballots overseas and back.

Subject to change by a declaration of the war's end, the electioneering may start officially Feb. 9, when candidates for the recognized parties may begin gathering signatures for their nomination petitions. Independents may start getting signers for their nomination papers on March 11.

Candidates who change their mind about running have until March 18 to withdraw. That also is the deadline for filing objections to nomination petitions. Registrations for the primary close March 30—the last day, also, for changing party or non-partisan enrollment until after the general election.

The lid closes April 10 on filing candidates' nomination papers.

Registration of voters after the primary election will start May 27, and end Sept. 14.

Members of the parties' state committees, elected at the primary, must meet for organization not later than June 26.

The dates in the election calendar govern moving-day for citizens who don't want to lose their voting privileges temporarily: March 21 is the last day an elector may move from one election district to another and still be eligible to cast his ballot at the primary; if he moves after Sept. 5, he cannot vote at the general election.

Denial Made By Yamashita Of Atrocities

Manila, P. I., Nov. 29—(AP)—Direct examination of Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, testifyihg in his own defense on war crimes charges, concluded today with the former Philippine commander steadfastly denying any knowledge of atrocities committed by his Japanese army subordinates.

In response to questions by his defense attorneys, Yamashita admitted close liaison with his various chiefs of staff but snapped an emphatic "no" to a question whether he ever issued any orders for killings or brutal treatment of civilians.

In fact, he testified, he had instructed his subordinates to cooperate with the Filipinos as much as possible.

In conclusion, the Japanese general gripped the arms of his chair and declared earnestly:

"The matters referred to in charges here I have known for the first time from witnesses before this court. When and if such acts were committed by my subordinates it is in complete disagreement with my own ideas.

"I never ordered such actions, never condoned such actions, nor have I ever recognized such actions at all."

Furthermore, he said, had he been aware of them he would have ordered them discontinued.

CHAMPION OF BABY BEEFS BRINGS $4,258

Pittsburgh, Nov. 29—(AP)—"Jake", 995-pound grand champion of the baby beeves in the 13th Pittsburgh Livestock Show was sold for $4,258.75, or $4.25 a pound, in open auction at the closing sessions of the three-day show here yesterday.

Show President N. L. Clairborne said the price was the highest ever paid for a steer in a Pittsburgh show.

The steer, a purebred Aberdeen-Angus, was owned and exhibited by Dale Crozier, 16-year-old 4-H Club member of Zanesville, O.

10-Story Addition For Hamot Planned

Erie, Nov. 29—(AP)—A movement got under way today to raise $1,800,000 by public subscription for construction of a 10-story building for Hamot hospital—which officials described as in critical need of revision and expansion.

Dr. Arthur G. Davis, chairman of the hospital's advisory committee, said the institution is "literally bursting at the seams," with an average of 38 to 40 people a day waiting at the door.

The new building, providing 190 more beds, would increase the hospital's capacity to 483 adult patients and permit expansion of surgical and other service. Between 3,000 and 6,000 more patients could be admitted annually.

12 Believed Lost On Navy Seaplane

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 29—(AP)—Twelve crew members of a navy seaplane salvage derrick which was sunk last night in collision with the tanker SS McClelland Creek in the waters around Thimble Shoals are feared lost, coast guard headquarters here reported today.

The navy vessel went down almost immediately after the collision which occurred about 6:45 o'clock last night.

The coast guard said all available rescue vessels and planes are continuing to search the area today for survivors. No bodies have been recovered, the coast guard reported.

Foot of Snow Reported In Central Pennsylvania Area

Pittsburgh, Nov. 29—(AP)—A mixture of rain, snow and freezing temperatures iced some western Pennsylvania highways today and state highway crews were reported cindering.

Weatherman W. S. Brotzman said the rain and snow fell the length of the Ohio-Pennsylvania border.

Harrisburg, Nov. 29—(AP)—The weather bureau reported up to a foot of snow in the central Pennsylvania mountains today but in the eastern district there were heavy rains reaching a maximum of 3.33 inches in Philadelphia.

The heaviest snowfall of 12 inches was reported in Potter county with eight inches in Bradford county, four inches in Clearfield county, and one inch in Perry county.

There was 3.16 inches of rain at Newport, near Harrisburg but only slight precipitation in the Ohio River valley. The rainfall at Williamsport was 2.04 inches, Harrisburg 1.40 inches but only .45 of an inch at Wilkes-Barre.

Leslie F. Conover, head of the weather bureau here, said preliminary estimates indicate there will be floods as a result of the heavy rains in some districts.

Philadelphia, Nov. 29—(AP)—A record November rainstorm blew itself out here today after flooding highways and cellars, knocking down power lines and trees and causing numerous traffic accidents.

During the past 24 hours 3.33 inches of rain fell in Philadelphia, exceeding by .74 of an inch the previous mark set in 1876.

The U. S. Weather Bureau reported the storm struck the entire area of southeastern Pennsylvania with a wind reaching a maximum of 28 miles an hour shortly before daylight.

STEEL UNION POLLS HEAVY STRIKE VOTE

Ballot By Members In National Election Favors Walkout By Five To One Count

NO CALL SCHEDULED

Pittsburgh, Nov. 29—(AP)—Officials of the CIO-United Steel workers held in their hands today authority to call a nationwide strike to enforce their demand for a $2 a day pay raise.

The power was given by members of their union who voted in a national labor relations board election yesterday, favoring a strike nearly 5 to 1.

Unofficial, incomplete returns to the NLRB from hundreds of polling places in 27 states showed the workers voting 342,125 for, only 70,639 against a strike.

There was no indication a strike would be called immediately or even in the near future.

Officials of the USWA told their local leaders before the voting that a favorable ballot did not necessarily mean there would be a strike.

Workers were cautioned against any premature work stoppage and were informed the authority for a strike rests with the National Wage Policy Committee and the executive board.

The election was the greatest NLRB vote ever undertaken in the United States, involving 766 plants and some 650,000 workmen, many thousands of whom did not cast ballots.

The vote was called for by the union after the steel companies declared that they could not grant a $2 a day pay boost without a raise in steel prices, which the OPA refused.

The story was the same in every state, an overwhelming majority for the strike authorization.

Complete, returns from Pennsylvania, greatest steel producer in the nation, with an annual ingot capacity of about 30,000,000 tons, voted 161,512 for, 36,817 against.

The teeming mills of Ohio produced a 69,096 to 14,923 return for the strike authorization.

New York steelworkers plumped for the walkout by about 40,000 to 7,000.

Majorities in these three big states ranged around 5 to 1 but they were not the highest recorded.

About 4,000 workers in Alabama voted 14 to 1 for a strike, nearly 7,500 in Minnesota cast a 13 to 1 ballot for it. Some 16,000 in Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina and Michigan favored the strike 8 to 1, while smaller groups in Utah and Texas voted 10 to 1.

In Arkansas, a single plant with 38 workers voting, gave the strike a thumping 37 to 1 approval.

The smallest majority, about 2 to 1, was recorded by 3,000 steelworkers in Colorado.

Yesterday's balloting involved employes at all plants of "Little Steel" and "Big Steel," numerous independents not included in either groups, as well as aluminum workers who more than a year ago became members of the USWA. Aluminum workers voted for the strike in about the same ratio as steel workers.

Labor Chief Takes a Hand In G.M. Strike

Detroit, Nov. 29—(AP)—Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach took a personal hand today in the nine-day-old General Motors strike which has idled 225,000 workers and stalled production in more than 70 plants.

Schwellenbach, who conferred with President Truman late last week on the GM strike, sat in on a four-hour meeting with officials of the CIO United Automobile Workers at Washington yesterday.

The conference was called by Chief Federal Conciliator Edgar L. Warren, who announced later he and Schwellenbach would ask GM President C. E. Wilson to re-

Erie Considering Parking Meters

Erie, Nov. 29—(AP)—Parking meters for the city's business district in 1946 appeared a certainty today, unless Erie councilmen change their minds.

The four council members have declared themselves unanimously in favor of meters as a new source of revenue for the city. Park Director Gale Ross and Streets Director Harry J. Klebes, long opposed to the meters, have jumped on the band wagon. Klebes said meters would help solve traffic and parking problems.

An estimate of a $25,000 return in 1946, if action is taken soon, and $50,000 annually after that, was made by Finance Director Joseph C. Martin.

Mayor Charles R. Barber, who also has a vote, said he would withhold his decision pending discussions of the proposal at city budget sessions starting next week.

New Way To Combat Shortage of Offices

Columbia, S. C., Nov. 29—(AP)—Lawyers coming back to Columbia from military service can't find office space, so as a temporary expedient they will be allowed to hang out their shingles outside circuit and county courtrooms.

Clerk of Court Clarence Hinnant served notice on them, however, that they would have to vacate their "offices" when the courts are in session.

Troops Pour Into Ports By The Thousands

By the Associated Press

With troops now pouring into Pacific coast ports by the thousands every day, facilities for handling them and sending them on to separation centers are becoming badly jammed army officials said yesterday (Wed.)

Brig. Gen. Eley P. Denson, commanding general of the Seattle port of embarkation said barracks handling arrivals at Portland, Seattle and Tacoma were filled to capacity with about 30,000 men despite movements out, and that 11,000 men were due within the next two days in the Seattle and Tacoma areas.

"We are about five trainloads behind schedule from Seattle alone," he said.

Troop arrivals in San Francisco have created a "sudden passenger overload," spokesmen for Santa Fe, Southern Pacific and Western Pacific railroads said in a joint statement after conferences with military authorities.

The railroads said they had been informed 405,000 service men requiring rail transportation would be landed at Pacific coast ports this month, but that actually there would be about 465,000.

Army officials at Los Angeles said that for several weeks there have been delays of three to four days in getting returning servicemen started homeward, and that the situation was getting no better.

Early Flight To China Is Planned

Washington, Nov. 29—(AP)—Armed with broad powers, Gen. George C. Marshall sped preparations today for a quick flight to China. His predecessor's explosive resignation headed for an airing on Capitol Hill.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the senate foreign relations committee told reporters he plans to call both Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley and Secretary of State James F. Byrnes before a closed door session, perhaps Monday.

The purpose, Connally said, will be an informal discussion of Hurley's contention that he had been crossed up as ambassador to China by subordinates both in the state department and at Chungking.

Connally stressed, however, that he has no intention of ordering any such full-dress hearing as Senator Wherry (R-Neb) demanded in a bitter senate speech late yesterday. This would have covered just about everything connected with the state department, the Atlantic charter and the Potsdam Big Three agreement.

French Criticized By General "Ike"

By JAMES F. KING

Frankfurt, Germany, Nov. 29—(AP)—Gen. Eisenhower in a report released here today, criticized the French government for hampering the Allied Control Council and urged early establishment of central German administrative machinery.

Summarizing the situation in Germany in October, before he left to become chief of staff of the U. S. army, Eisenhower cited the potential dangers "of unrest and disease this winter."

He declared, however, there was "no immediate emergency in the American and British zones as long as current rations can be maintained."

The release followed by a day the White House disclosures of a report to President Truman by Byron Price, former censorship director, blaming France for most of the occupation difficulties.

Stating the United States had no intention of "taking any active steps to raise Germany above the economic level required by humanitarianism," Eisenhower declared that German industry must be raised above the five to seven percent of capacity at which it is now operating, and that food must be imported without thought of payment.

BURTON LAUD RESIGNS AS D. A. OF ERIE CO.

Erie, Nov. 29—(AP)—Burton R. Laub, who was elected judge of Erie county common pleas court three weeks ago, announced his resignation as district attorney yesterday.

He said he plans to rest until Jan. 7, when he will assume the judgeship.

His final appearance as district attorney was made Monday before the supreme court in Philadelphia to oppose the appeal of John D. West and Robert W. Pepperman, both of Williamsport, convicted slayers of an Erie man.

TRUMAN NOT IN FAVOR OF CONFERENCES

Chief Executive Says He Sees No Need for Any More Meetings of the Big Three

DEPENDING ON U. N. O.

Washington, Nov. 29—(AP)—President Truman said today he saw no need for any more Big Three conferences if the United Nations organizations works as it should.

Asked at a news conference whether revisions in Allied control machinery for Germany might require a meeting of himself, Generalissimo Stalin and Prime Minister Attlee, Mr. Truman said he was not in favor of special conferences.

He wants the United Nations to do its job, he added, asserting he remembers that the League of Nations was ruined by special conferences.

The president stated he hoped the United Nations would take over within the next 90 days all the problems previously worked out by Big Three meetings.

In his discussion of foreign policy Mr. Truman also developed these points:

1. He does not share the fear which a questioning reporter (Bert Andrews of the New York Herald-Tribune) said some persons in the country hold that Russia will not cooperate toward world peace or that Russia's policies will lead to war. He was very emphatic in stating he did not share any such fears.

2. At a later date, the president will discuss fully the international situation, particularly as it involves efforts of the nation to cooperate for peace. The discussion may be at a news conference.

3. Negotiations are now under way among the Allies ruling Germany for a revision of the Potsdam declaration on Germany in some respects. Chiefly the United States is seeking a modification of the arrangement which requires unanimous agreement among this government, Russia, France and Britain before any decisions can be made by the Allied control council in Berlin. This effort at revision grows out of Byron Price's report on the possible failure of American aims and policies in Germany.

4. Gen. George C. Marshall, the president's special envoy to China probably will leave for Chungking in three or four days and the instructions which he is finally given may be published. They are yet to be worked out, although Mr. Truman said that Marshall's basic job would be to carry out the policies which we've always had in China.

5. The resignation of Ambassador Patrick J. Hurley from the China post reached his desk formally only this morning, the president said. Hurley announced it two days ago with a blast at American "career diplomats." Mr. Truman declined to comment on the Hurley criticisms.

Coaches Endeavor To End Students' Strike

Pittsburgh, Nov. 29—(AP)—City high school coaches announced they would resume their coaching duties today pending action by the board of education Tuesday on their demand for coaching pay.

The coaches hoped this would halt the spreading strike of sympathetic students, which today embraced about 5,000 enthusiastic youngsters who either paraded about the streets with signs or went to the movies, instead of school.

Ringing cowbells and chanting "no sports, no school," the boys and bobby soxers swarmed the streets, pausing sometimes to try to "strike" another school.

Icy Highways Cause Series Of Accidents

Slushy highways, result of snow and colder weather arriving overnight, made driving hazardous today and accounted for several minor accidents, most of which were not even reported to police.

State Police were called to Devil's Elbow on the Kinzua road about 9:30 a. m. when a Dodge truck owned by William F. Crossett and a 1940 Oldsmobile sedan operated by John Denos, 19 Mechanics street, Bradford, collided on the worst part of the curve at the foot of the hill.

The investigation is being continued and State Police may charge the driver of the truck, Donald E. Guiher, Clarendon RD 1, with failure to drive on the right side of the highway. Damage to the truck was estimated at 200 and to the Oldsmobile, about $300.

Guiher was taken to a physician in Kinzua for treatment of a chin laceration, contusions on both legs and knees and loss of a tooth. Ella Voorhees, 39 Bishop street, Bradford, en route to Cleveland and a passenger in the Denos car, was shaken up and had a cut on her lip but did not require treatment.

A West Ridge bus and a passenged car used to transport school children collided early this morning on Conewango avenue, at the Frank street intersection, damaging the latter to some extent.

Several cars were off the highway during the night, the Munksgard wrecker being called to the vicinity of the Lily Pond to bring one in about 1:30 a. m.

Emperor System Discussed In Diet

By RUSSELL BRINES

Tokyo, Nov. 29—(AP)—Half-hearted applause greeted a suggestion in the Japanese diet today that the emperor system should be perpetuated under a Japanese-style democracy.

Premier Kijure Shidehara and one of Japan's leading reconstruction politicians, Ichiro Hatoyama, both voiced the opinion in an unprecedented legislative discussion in the house.

Hatoyama, leader of the Liberal party, drew only polite applause when he said the "emperor system must be retained" as bulwark against "possible dictatorships." Shidehara voiced agreement.

The Liberal leader demanded to know the limits of the government's contemplated democratization. The premier replied with a definition of democracy as "representation of the will of the people."

This, Shidehara declared, was assured by freedom of thought, press and "equality of individuals."

SAY GOERING RESPONSIBLE FOR INVASION

By WES GALLAGHER

Nuernberg, Nov. 29—(AP)—Ghastly scenes of Nazi concentration camps were shown in motion pictures today to the international military tribunal but some of the Hitlerite leaders on trial sat with averted eyes during the showing of the grimy film record of German cruelty.

The grisly pictures of mass murder sobered Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering and others of the score of defendants who had grinned and laughed earlier as an American prosecutor disclosed the threats, bluffs and deceit with which Hitler softened up Austria for an unopposed invasion.

Hjalmar Schacht, Hitler's "financial wizard," sat with his back to the screen, refusing to look at the official U. S. army film. Franz von Papen, once Germany's wiliest diplomat, refused to glance at the screen but could not shut out the sound of the narrator's voice describing the deaths of thousands of Nazi victims.

Rudolph Hess, on the other hand, showed an interest in the trial for the first time. Hitler's one-time deputy, who is trying to escape from the trial on a plea of lost memory, followed the uncensored film closely.

The court adjourned for the day at 4:45 p. m. (10:45 a. m. EST) after the motion picture was entered as evidence.

Fat and not-too-happy Hermann Goering was described as the man who directed by telephone the blitz invasion of Austria after Austrian Nazis paved the way by deposing Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg.

Goering became serious as assistant U. S. Prosecutor Sidney S. Alderman read in detail transcripts of telephone conversations between Goering and Austrian Nazis on the days before and on the days of the unopposed invasion.

The records were found in the ruins of the Berlin air ministry building by Associated Press Correspondent Dan De Luce and given to the prosecution for evidence.

"This highly interesting document allows us to live again in those grim days of anschluss," Alderman declared.

Many of the telephone conversations were with Arthur Seyss-Inquart, Austrian Nazi leader and one of Goering's fellow defendants. The prosecution said the records clearly disclosed Nazi plotting to absorb Austria into the Reich.

The prosecutor pointed out to the court the cynical discrepancies and "international double talk" between Goering's open threats to the Austrian government and his telephoned statement the day after the anschluss to Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, who at the time was in London, that "this story we had given an ultimatum is just foolish gossip."

The last statement was for the benefit of English agents tapping the telephone wire, Alderman said.

Franz von Papen, who paved the way for the anschluss as minister to Austria, grinned when Goering's talk with Ribbentrop was read.

Goering himself almost doubled up with laughter when Alderman quoted him as telling Ribbentrop how he was sitting on his Berlin balcony drinking his coffee while "the birds are twittering."

For the second straight day, American prosecutors continued to unfold the tale of Nazi intrigue, deceit and fifth column activity that resulted in the blitz anschl-

600 UNRRA Employes Fired For Unsatisfactory Service

Herford, Germany, Nov. 29—(AP)—Leo J. Margolin, chief of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration in Europe, said in a statement today that 600 UNRRA employes had been dismissed for incompetence within the last few months.

He said most of those dismissed were nationals of European countries.

Margolin declared he wished to correct a previous Associated Press report which quoted him as saying 600 UNRRA workers, a majority of them Americans and British, had been dismissed, suspended or arrested.

(In London the European office of the UNRRA said the previous report that the dismissals were in connection with a two-month investigation into black market activities in Germany "is completely inaccurate."

("The facts are that 600 UNRRA officials in Germany have been removed for unsatisfactory service in the process of strengthening personnel engaged in displaced persons activities," the UNRRA statement said.

("By some misunderstanding this seems to have been linked up with the announcement that one UNRRA worker of Czech nationality has been imprisoned for theft and that others have been suspended.")

Margolin said that during the last few months the 600 employes had been dismissed for incompetency as part of a reorganization put into effect by Lt. Gen. Sir Frederick A. Morgan, UNRRA director in Germany.

SHOW ORIGINALITY

These several Christmas wrappings not only solve the problem of how to pack an odd-shaped gift, but will make it stand out among all the others.

By KATHARINE SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK—Big news in the Christmas tinsel and tissue paper trade is the first reappearance since the war of silver and gold metallic paper. It's a token showing only, and brows of tradesmen are still furrowed as they wrestle with the uneven balances of supply and demand.

In general, Christmas wrapping supplies will not exceed last year's with only a few new patterns. Cleverly wrapped gifts will continue to depend more on imagination than unlimited selection of materials.

Jingly little Christmas bells, tiny pine cones, wreaths and splashy rayon satin ribbons will be best bets for spicing up a package. Combine them with originality and you'll have a package that will make Christmas really merry.

Take, for instance, a large square box. It looks just like a box until you transform it with a sprinkling of cut-out snow flakes into a window from fairyland. Or it might become a snow-rimmed chimney, by pasting red crepe paper on it, marking the brick design with strips of heavy white paper, and pasted on a two-inch band of white cotton.

ODD-SIZE PACKAGES

Another cheerful addition under the Christmas tree is the red sleigh coasting in with its precious cargo wrapped in silver paper or white tissue. Measure the box and draw a sleigh pattern to fit on heavy red paper; cut out and fold. Place the "sleigh" over the box and tie all together with green ribbon. As a special fillip, add pine cones and run a red candy cane through the bow.

Odd - sized, or hard - to - wrap gifts are skillfully packaged in the fat white snowball, the sturdy red and white stocking, or a Christmas candle with a red paper flame. The gala horn of plenty spilling out its entrancing array of small gifts is simply a cardboard cone covered with paper and sticker stars and trimmed with a pouf of colored cellophane straws tied to the end.

HOW TO MAKE A CANE

To make the Christmas candle shown, use a tube of heavy white paper, paste the edges together and cover with crepe paper, leaving about two extra inches at the top. Frange the lower end of the tube into tabs an inch deep and a half inch wide. The heavy paper base is also crepe paper covered, and is cut out doughnut fashion and slipped over the fringed end of the tube. The tabs are blued flat to the underside.

Now, paste the whole business on a strong cardboard foundation, put in your gift and draw together the edges of the crepe paper at the top to form a flame. Tie with ribbon, spiral ribbon around the candle to the base, and pin flat. Wind more ribbon around the base and stick on a few holly berries or pine cones.

STORM DELAYED TRAIN

The storm that covered this section with snow was more severe to the east and on the Buffalo division of the Pennsylvania railroad wires were downed and traffic slowed. The Northern Express from the east was two hours and fifteen minutes late in arriving in Warren. The east bound train went through on time.

THE STATE POLICE SAY:

Such officers and soldiers of the United State Army, Pennsylvania National Guard, and the Pennsylvania Reserve Defense Corps who are designated as military police or traffic control guards, while engaged in convoying or transporting troops, animals, equipment or other army impediments upon any highway in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania are vested with the authority of arrest for violation of the laws of this state. Under the law you must obey the directions of such officers and soldiers as you would a police officer.

TRAFFIC VIOLATIONS

Two traffic violators were taken last evening by the police. One of them crashed the traffic light at Hickory street and Pennsylvania Ave. and the other was driving too fast for highway conditions. The police last night received a call to notify Lt. Col. T. G. Schligel, of Akron, Ohio of the death of his son in Kansas City. The officer was a guest at the Carver House and the police notified him and helped him get his car out of a garage and started for Akron. Several minor crashes were reported about town due to the snow and on Conewango avenue a car collided with one of the city line buses. The car was badly damaged.

I've enjoyed the trip but wouldn't attempt it again at this time of year. At one place, coming down the west slope, I ran into a flock of 1,000 sheep that looked just like the snow on every hand. They crowded me off the road into the ditch but a snowplow came along after an hour or so and lifted me out. No other casualty, but saw several along the way. On the way to Newport, Oregon, to help build a house for my cousin. In Portland tomorrow.

This huge hydro-electric generator, when completed at General Electric's Generator Division in Schenectady, N. Y., will go to Russia for its famous Dnieprostroi Dam. Armature frame and core shown here are declared to be the largest in the world. New generators will have a 15 per cent greater output than the old ones built in 1931.

Deer Season Opens Saturday; Hunters Beginning To Arrive

With the advent of snow over this section deer hunters looked forward to a successful season. The forestry officials also took a good look and smiled with glee over the prospects of no fires due to the wet weather.

Already scores of hunting parties have arrived in the county and it is confidently expected that the number in the woodsland here will be the greatest in the history of the county. Due to the publication and circulation of the lists of quarters available to hunters by the Chamber of Commerce rooms for over 500 hunters have been secured. The Chamber of Commerce since the publication of the list has received a large number of additional registrations so that hunters who have not made reservations can do so at the Chamber of Commerce office in the Warren Bank and Trust Building.

Restaurants will also be open on December 2 and 9 for the accomodation of the visitors in town. For the past few years restaurants closed Sundays and the hunters have had trouble in getting meals. All of the restaurants will be open and Pete's Grill will be open all night over both week ends so that hunters passing through town may be fed. The Blue and White Restaurant is also preparing its schedule so that their place of business will be open each Sunday from now on. They had planned this new arrangement to take effect later in December but with the demand for meals by the hunters the opening date was advanced two weeks and they will have meals.

The bear season, which draws to a close today has been highly successful and the hunters have been well rewarded. The kill in this county is a little higher than in the average over the state and some big bears have fallen before the hunters guns.

The 15 day deer season should produce the largest kill of good deer in several years as the herd is in good shape and the animals are larger and stronger than they have been in several seasons.

Friday and Friday night a great influx of red coated men is expected and from the hundreds of camps in this section smoke will rise and the annual outing for hundreds of city folk will be on.

Weatherman Promises Rain For District

The old snow shovel emerged from the moth balls this morning and got a good oiling up for the removal of about an inch of wet, heavy snow that covered sidewalks. That is, some of the shovels did but not many. The trees and shrubs were covered with the clammy, soggy snow and presented a beautiful picture for the early risers.

The old Weatherman has promised rain which is to end tonight and clouds for Friday. The warm air which has covered this area for the past few days is to continue, according to Old Probs and the gas fires may be turned down and the coal conserved a bit by the thrifty folks.

POST-WAR PENNSYLVANIA

Harrisburg—The nation's No. 1 soldier came back to his native state last week, the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission reported.

General of the Army George C. Marshall stepped out of his train at Philadelphia's 30th Street Station to be greeted by Governor Martin and Mayor Samuel. As a band blared "The General's March," a crowd of military and naval dignitaries formed a reception line. Along the city's streets a throng of a million and a quarter cheered to the accompaniment of 75's roaring out 17-gun salutes.

In Independence Hall the General stared at a picture of his ancestor, Chief Justice John Marshall. At the table on which the Declaration of Independence was signed, he signed his name in the guest book. Spotting the white-starred ribbon of the Congressional Fedal of Honor on a visiting sergeant, the General snapped his arm in a prompt salute. That night he was guest of honor at a banquet commemorating the 50th anniversary of the Pennsylvania Commandery, Military Order of Foreign Wars.

Amidst their enthusiasm the crowds in Philadelphia seemed a trifle awed by their distinguished visitor. George Marshall's natural dignity, a dignity which kept even the late President Roosevelt from calling him by his first name, befitted the new type of soldier produced by modern mechanized warfare. With war now a gigantic industry of destruction, the swashbuckling field commanders have taken second place to the quiet executive at the top.

General Marshall was the first Chief of Staff in American history to outshine the generals who led the armies into combat. Born in Uniontown, December 31, 1880, George went to Virginia Military Institute, where he played football and was All-Southern tackle his senior year. When he graduated in 1901, the Army gave him a commission and sent him to the Philippines. In World War I he rose to a temporary colonelcy as Chief or Staff of the Eighth Army Corps. His remarkable genius was already demonstrating itself. General Pershing thought Marshall at 37 was the best staff officer he had. His shifting of half a million men during the Meuse-Argonne operation was acknowledged to be the outstanding large-scale troop movement of the war.

When the dark night of destruction blacked out Europe in 1939, the President sent 30 names down the promotion list to pick General Marshall, then only a brigadier, to head the reconstruction of our armed forces. On the day that Hitler's tanks rumbled into Poland General Marshall became Chief of Staff. Taking over an Army which that day was scarcely fit to cope with a minor European power, he built it into one of the mightiest fighting forces the world has ever known. He planned a strategy which meant the inevitable doom of the dictators, and held to it despite clamor from inside and outside the country.

On him rested the responsibility for the preservation of democracy, and the burden has never been borne on more capable shoulders. He pulled able officers out of the obscurity into which the hidebound rule of seniority had plunged them. He saw that new weapons and new ideas were tested instead of being superciliously ignored. He gave Gladwyne's General Arnold the authority he needed to build his Air Force into the greatest striking power ever seen. When men mailed him, he broke them ruthlessly. His dressings down were rare but famous. Without profanity, without shouting, his rebukes burned with a quiet fire.

Almost 65, George Marshall last week was ready to take off the many-ribboned uniform he had worn so well. The nation reluctantly prepared to see him go, realized that it owed him a debt which it could repay only with its unending respect and admiration.

England's telegraph system uses up 130,000 poles in a normal year.

Shown above are typical holiday greetings for this first peacetime Christmas in four years. Peace is the central theme this year, but there is plenty of humor to be found, too.

By KATHARINE SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Correspondent

New York—Peace on earth. This Christmas message, ringing out after five dark war years, is the joyous theme of 1945 Christmas cards.

The shadow of wartime economy persists, however. Greeting card production restrictions were lifted too late in the year to assure unlimited supplies for this holiday season, but those available are exceptionally well designed and printed.

Early selection and mailing are urged by Army and Navy postal services for those thousands of servicemen and women who still will be overseas at Christmas. To insure pre-Christmas delivery, send the cards by first-class mail in sealed envelopes not later than November 15. All domestic Christmas cards, packages and letters should be mailed by December 10.

Sentiments and verses on Christmas cards, the greeting card industry reports, are shorter and more to the point than in the past, allowing plenty of space for a personal holiday message from the sender.

CLEVER ART WORK

No taint of the hackneyed mars the freshness of the designs which are the work of some of the leading American artists and designers. Everywhere the return of peace is heralded. Angels look down over a broad and peaceful land. Soldiers gratefully lay down their weapons before the cradle of the Prince of Peace.

The heart-warming welcome home, reuniting families separated during the war, is reflected in familiar scenes. Horse-drawn sleighs stop in front of snow-covered homes whose windows are cheerfully ablaze with light. Other cards depict families gathered around the Christmas turkey, or happily distributing gifts around the tree. A benevolent minister shovels the snow from his church door, inviting parishioners to a prayerful observance of their holiday reunion. Silhouetted against a window, Scotties watch expectantly for their master's arrival home.

FUNNY ONES, TOO

Old Saint Nick, appearing in a variety of predicaments, replaces last year's emphasis on wartime shortages and inconveniences in the humorous category. Santa is shown as a gentle little man looking suspiciously like Father with whiskers, an urbane playboy, a jolly kibitzer, a winning prize-fighter and a street photographer.

For the first time a group of fashion artists has turned its sure sense of color and line to the creation of Christmas cards. One artist uses clear peasant costume colors in a stylized treatment of the Christmas story. Others treat traditional Christmas skating and fireside scenes with sophisticated finesse.

Modern and imaginative, this year's cards picture the national desire for a truly old-fashioned Merry Christmas.

Here's Your New Pontiac

HUGE JOB AHEAD ON HOME REPAIRS

More than $1,809,000 is expected to be spent during the next five years by Warren county home owners on remodeling and repair work.

The year 1946 promises to inaugurate one of the greatest eras in American history for home repairs and modernization, according to estimates released by the Tile Council of America. "Few developments will contribute more to employment and general prosperity in any community," according to R. E. Jordan, chairman of the Council's Residential Construction Committee.

Because of lack of materials and manpower during the war, majority of the county's 12,058 dwelling units are in need of some kind of repair or remodeling work. Kitchen improvements and modernization of bathrooms, installation of tiled showers and in some homes addition of a second bath top the nation's list of most wanted major improvements, Jordan says.

Outside paint jobs are needed on more than 50 per cent of homes, and addition of rooms and construction of porches also rank high in remodeling plans, according to the report. New roofing and heating plants are required by many dwellings.

Home owners in Pennsylvania will spend an estimated $393,525,000 and those of the nation more than $5,500,000,000 for major repairs in the next five years, according to Jordan. Ample funds, at low interest charges, are available for such work through commercial banks, savings and loan associations, credit unions and mutual savings banks, he pointed out.

ON THE BALL

St. Marys Press

This section of Pennsylvania is represented in Washington by a Congressman who is "on the ball."

We refer to Leon H. Gavin, whose home is in Oil City.

When the proposed flood control program for this section appeared bogged down in committee, Congressman Gavin made a special request that money be appropriated at once to alleviate any further flood dangers in this area.

He cited some of the experiences Johnsonburg residents went through in the "flash flood" a couple years ago, and said further that control of waters in the valleys surrounding this section would mean a great deal in cutting down flood danger at Pittsburgh, in the Ohio and Mississippi river valleys.

Mr. Gavin is always looking out for the welfare of his constituents and has given his district real representation in the halls of Congress.

He's never too busy to do something for the district or render help wherever he can do so.

Now he wants Congress to take immediate action on his flood control project so work can begin as soon as winter weather is over and the spring of 1946 is with us. He is against any further delays, and is going to fight for an okay now, not sometime in the distant future.

FAVORITE STORY . . .

A soldier was returning from the village, having had a haircut, when he met his captain carrying golf clubs.

"If you're returning to camp, Jones," said the captain, "would you mind putting these clubs in my office for me?"

"Certainly, sir," said Jones slinging the bag over his shoulder. A little nearer the camp he met the colonel.

"Good morning, sir," said Jones, saluting smartly.

"Morning, Jones," answered the colonel genially. "Been for a round of golf?"

"Oh, no sir," the soldier replied. "I've been having a haircut."

"Fourteen days for insolence," bawled the colonel.

With snow shovels busy most of the day now is a good time to print a recipe from the National Safety Council for avoiding falls on icy sidewalks or steps. Take a liberal quantity of sand, gravel or fine cinders. Add coarse of rock salt. And mix. Garnish all icy spots generously with the preparation.

Lots of folks are finding already that Christmas selections are becoming scarce. Wise shoppers have been filling their lists for some time. Better get busy or you're certain to find you are too late.

Good Old England Dog-Tired But Still Sticking it Out

AP World Traveler

London, Nov. 29—Well, just showing what a good prophet I am, here we are in London after flying the Atlantic, on the first leg of a world tour which we shall chronicle in this column.

Here I should report to you rather belatedly that when I speak of "we" I'm not employing the editorial pronoun. I have a partner—an energetic and capable young woman—who will work with me on this assignment. Now, now—get your tongues out of your cheeks and meet Mrs. MacKenzie. From here on it will be the two Macks.

Both of us have been busy combing the highways ond byways of London since our arrival and our outstanding impression, apart from the battlescars and terrible drabness, is that Britain's capital is very, very tired. Of course, come of the country districts probably don't register the same degree of weariness, but what is true in London undoubtedly is true of other localities which underwent the scourge of bombing.

This isn't snap judgment on our part, for we know our England and her people from many years of residence here. Everywhere you go in the capital you see strain and great weariness registered on drawn faces.

When I was here in 1942 there were strained faces, too, for the war was at its height. But then you didn't notice the weariness so much because everybody was going all out for victory and the dangers and thrills of battle kept the country keyed up. But with war's end there has come a tremendous letdown. My partner and I spent considerable time yesterday talking with strangers whom we met here and there, and a woman bus conductor summed the position up rather well for us.

"We are tired" she said—and her voice had that dead level which bespeaks intense weariness. "The war kept us going, but we thought that when peace came we should get relief from the hard times—but we haven't got it."

There was no bitterness in her tone—just tiredness which reflected the harsh privations which the people of this country still are enduring. Relief will come, but it's a good distance away as yet. The food isn't so good as it was when I was here in 1942, and such necessities as clothing and shoes are hard to get. Luxuries are a thing of the dim and distant past—except for the few folk who debase themselves by trading in the black market which persists despite the efforts of the law to abolish it.

One great reason why relief is slow in coming to the people of England is that the government is diverting a large measure of manufacturers to foreign trade in an effort to bolster John Bull's lean purse. Sir Stafford Cripps, chairman of the board of trade, has preached "austerity" so vigorously to the public that they call him Sir Austerity Cripps—a bit of humor which has a rather harsh connotation for the man in the street who has patches on his trousers.

Now don't get the wrong impression from what I've said. England is dog-tired, and more than a little disappointed because peace hasn't brought relief from the privations of war—but John Bull hasn't lost his fighting spirit. The situation as we see it here today reminds me of an incident I encountered in the first World War when I was attached to British general headquarters in France as war correspondent.

The Fifty-First British Division—I'm writing from memory—was subjected to a fierce attack by ten German divisions. The Fifty-First fought doggedly, pulling back foot by foot but not giving much ground. This went on for seven days and seven nights until the exhausted Tommies would drop in their tracks and fall asleep instantly when there was the slightest lull in the fighting.

At the end of the week the Germans sent over a little balloon which had attached to it a note written in English, presumably by an officer who had lived in Britain. It read:

"Good old Fifty-First, still sticking it. Cheerio."

Evening Recital At Philomel Club Is Delightful Event

The first evening recital held by Philomel Club in several seasons was given at the Woman's Club last evening by Byron Swanson, tenor, and Eleanor Swanson, pianist, proving a most satisfying event in every way.

The audience left imediately the evidences of good training by the singer. Mr. Swanson sings with ease and finish and was particularly well received in his operatic airs, a group which demonstrated a good command of foreign languages. To many his English group was a popular selection and friends were pleased with the familiar Tosti "Goodbye".

Miss Lillian Larsen played a very satisfactory piano accompaniment for the singer, as well as appearing at the second piano for Miss Swanson's Reinecke Concerto.

Many had not had recent opportunity of hearing the young pianist in recital and were delighted with her display of technique and fine feeling for the mood of the varied compositions.

The entire program was as follows:

Songs—Amarilli, by Caccini; Speak Again, Love, by Latti; Have You Seen But a Whyte Lilac Grow, anonymous—15th and 16th century.

Piano—Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring, Bach; Sonata in D Minor, Scarlatti; Reflets dans l'eau and Prelude Pour le piano, Debussy.

Gems from the Operas—Celeste Aida from "Aida" by Verdi; Aubade (Serenade) from "Le Roi d'ya, by Lalo; M'appari tutt 'amor from "Martha" by von Flotow.

Piano—Two Rhapsodies, F sharp minor and C major, by Dohnanyi.

Songs—When I Bring to You Color'd Toys, Carpenter; The Bachelor's Complaint, Otey, from the Southern Hill country; Go, Lovely Rose, Quilter; Goodbye, Tosti.

Piano—Concerto in D minor, Reinecke.

Mrs. W. E. Yeager was hostess for the social hour which followed the recital, with refreshments served from a table prettily decorated with chrysanthemums and candles. Hostesses were Mrs. Louis Rapin, Mrs. L. B. Campbell, Mrs. Peter Horning, Mrs. J. B. Leidig and Mrs. Anna Wilson.

Busy Session For Women of Moose

Warren Chapter 693, Women of the Moose, held its regular meeting last evening, Senior Regent Mary Kirberger presiding and conducting the executive session which preceded the general gathering. Library Chairman Alice Reese presented a Chapter Night program with initiation of a class of three candidates and a shower honoring Loretta Moore, chaplain of the group and a recent bride. Mrs. Moore received a number of nice gifts for her new home.

Mrs. Nelson, Mooseheart chairman, asked for gifts for a box to be sent to boys and girls at Mooseheart, and Mrs. Mary Brindis, Hospital Guild chairman, asked for jams and jellies for her work. All gifts are to be brought to the next meeting, December 5, which will follow a six o'clock spaghetti supper.

Prizes for the evening went to Mary Wertman and Ella Smail.

Happiness For Others

Mrs. William Glassman, speaking at the meeting of Girl Scout Leaders Association Tuesday evening, told in detail of a Service Bureau project now under way in Warren in which 55 Girl Scouts are making stuffed animals and other toys to send overseas to children who may never have owned a toy. Beginning the last of October, the girls have met every Tuesday to sew. Materials being among the war casualties, friends have searched their scrap bags for pieces of cotton, plaid and printed. Even so, the supply is now exhausted. One interested woman donated a large amount of batting to stuff the toys. More than 50 have been completed and an equal number started. Not the least interesting part of the plan has been the talks about observance of holidays in lands other than our own. Mrs. C. P. Spiridon told the girls about Christmas in Greece, making the point that Christmas there is a religious festival only, the gift-giving coming at the beginning of the new year. Alexander Rashid told of religious customs of millions of children of the Mohammedan faith. Georgia Spinney, most recent speaker, told at this week's sewing bee how the Christmas season is observed in Russia. On Tuesday, December 4, Mrs. Boris Waxman will explain the Feast of Lights which will be observed next week by people of the Jewish faith. Mrs. Wayne Furman will tell, at a later meeting, about the observance of Twelfth Night in various countries. At the party which will end the series on December 27, moving pictures of Palestine, taken by Harold Banghart, will be shown.

SHOWER GIVEN FOR JANE DUNCAN

Mrs. Clemens Anderson and daughter, Betty Jane, 29, East Wayne street, entertained with a miscellaneous shower Monday evening in honor of Miss Janet Duncan, to be the bride of Captain Byron McKenzie. During the evening games were played, with prizes going to Mrs. Robert Hart, Mrs. William Simonsen, Mrs. Lucille Hagg and Miss Margaret Duncan. The bride-elect was then showered with many beautiful gifts and refreshments were served from tables decorated in pink and white.

Those present were Miss Margaret Duncan, Mrs. William Duncan, Mrs. Erick Anderson, Mrs. Robert Hart, Mrs. Arthur Hedberg, Miss Beverly Hedberg, Mrs. Clarence Agren, Mrs. Amanda Grindlay, Mrs. Jesse Duncan, Mrs. William Simonsen, Mrs. Milton McKenzie, Mrs. Harold Baldensperger, Mrs. Lucille Hagg, Mrs. Jack Moore, Mrs. Mervyn Brogan, Mrs. Floyd Kifer and Mrs. Dave Miller.

SUCCESSFUL PARTY AT ST. JOSEPH'S . . . .

About 150 persons enjoyed the public card party sponsored last evening by St. Joseph's church and held in the school hall. Prizes for the evening went to the following: Five hundred—Mrs. Paul Gray and George Monroe, high; Mrs. Henry Acks and Lewis Lucia, second. Auction bridge—Mrs. James Glennon and C. Hollingshead, high; Mrs. Arthur Shine and J. Lucia, second. Contract bridge—Mrs. George Cunningham, high; Mrs. Carl Swanson, second. Duplicate bridge—Mrs. F. A. Weigel and Mrs. Carl Hultberg, high pair; Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Kornreich, second. Special prizes—N A. Scalise and Mrs. Sam Gerardi, $25 Victory Bond—Mrs. Sam Falvo, 815 West Fifth avenue.

The committee in charge of the party arrangements served refreshments to conclude the evening and wish to thank all who in any way contributed to the success of the affair.

NEWLYWEDS LEAVE

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Clothier have left for Tampa, Fla., after spending two weeks with family and friends. Mrs. Clothier is the former Lucile Schumann, daughter of Frank Schumann, 3 Locust street, and was discharged from the Women's Army Corps November 8. Her husband was honorably discharged October 20 after serving four years.

While Mrs. Clothier was visiting here, her aunt, Mrs. Albert Schumann, gave three miscellaneous showers at which she received many lovely gifts for her new home.

SOCIETY

Margaret Saylor Becomes the Bride Of Philadelphian

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Saylor, 6 Myrtle street, announce the marriage of their daughter, Margaret, to Angelo . madio, son of Mr. and Mrs. Biagio Amadio, 120 Marlboro road, Upper Darby, on November 22 at high noon in the rectory of St. Francis de Sales church in Philadelphia. The Rev. Father Mahr performed the rite.

The bride wore cream satin, fashioned with sweetheart neckline in a lace yoke, and carried Madonna lilies. Her bridesmaid, Ruth Weakley, of Philadelphia, who was a classmate in training school, wore rose taffeta and carried red roses.

Jula Amadio was his brother's best man.

A wedding breakfast followed at the Amadio home for the immediate families. A dinner for 150 guests at 8:30 p. m. at the Turin Grotto was given by Mr. and Mrs. Caesar Gualla, god-father and god-mother of the bridegroom. The bride's table, banked with chrysanthemums, was laid for 24. The Top Trotters and their soloist provided the dinner music.

The bride is a graduate of the Osteopathic Hospital in Philadelphia, and the bridegroom is a student-intern there following his graduation from St. Joseph's College. After honeymooning in New York, they will make their home in Philadelphia.

Sgt. Helen Stroup Is Wed In Memphis

Sgt. Helen L. Stroup, of the Women's Army Corps, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Stroup, of Enterprise, and Chief Petty Officer Otto C. Becker, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis C. Becker, New York City, were united in marriage on November 17 in Memphis, Tenn. The double ring srevice was used by the Rev. Joseph Owen in the First Methodist church.

Helen McCante, SK 1/c, was maid of honor, and Elwin T. Roberts, SK 1/c, was best man. All were in uniform. The bride's corsage was of gardenias and tube roses, while the flowers of her attendant were white carnations and tuberoses.

Following the ceremony, an informal reception was held in the Balinese room of the Hotel Claridge in Memphis.

SUGAR GROVE

Sugar Grove, Nov. 26—Sixty relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Allenson, recently met at their new home for a house warming party. A very pleasant evening was spent and Mrs. Arthur Carlson of Jamestown presented a program. Several hymns were sung and prayer was offered by Mrs. G. Johnson. Mrs. Gust Hjelm gave a reading "Home" by Edgar Guest. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Peterson sang a duet. A reading, "Tommy's Prayer", was given by Miss Britta Hjelm. Mrs. Anna Johnson and Mrs. Elsie Reimer sang a duet. Remarks were given by Mrs. M. Engelstad. Mrs. Theodore Allenson and Mrs. Carl Allenson. The group joined in repeating the Twenty Third Psalm, and Major G. Johnson of the Jamestown Salvation Army, spoke and Billy, Carl, Carolyn and Anne Allenson sang. Mr. and Mrs. Allenson were presented a purse of money to be used for something for the new home and the program closed with prayer. Delicious refreshments were served. Preceding the program and as an accompaniment to the group singing the Johnson family provided instrumental music. The guests came from Jamestown, Lakewood and Sugar Grove and Mrs. Gust Hjelm and Mrs. Arthur Carlson planned the delightful affair.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McIntosh had as their guests for the Thanksgiving weekend: Mr. and Mrs. Ray Seamens and sons Charles and Howard, Greensburg, Pa., and Mr. and Mrs. James Martin, daughter Mary and son Robert of Niagara Falls, N. Y.

The Women's Misionary Society of the Free Methodist church, met at the home of Mrs. Russell Gustafson, Wednesday afternbon. The group packed a box to send to a young married couple at the Spanish Mission, at Tampa, Fla. in which Miss Ruthe Landin is the worker in charge.

Miss Edna Nelson of Sugar Grove, who will spend the winter in St. Petersburg, Fla., was a recent guest of Miss Landin, at Tampa.

YMCA Call To Membership Crowned By Decisive Victory With 647 Members Reported

Decisive victory crowned the efforts of the enthusiastic workers in the Y. M. C. A. Call to Membership when the campaigners made their final report last night. When all reports were in, the figures on the blackboard revealed that 238 members had been signed up in the last two days of the campaign, for a grand total of 647 members. The goal of this year's Call was 600.

When, at the close of Monday night's meeting, the "Y" campaign workers saw that the large number of 191 members were needed for victory, they went to work with a determination that brought the splendid results reported above. The fine spirit of this organization of 80 officers and team members was in evidence throughout the eight days of the campaign and they have earned high commendation for their notable achievement.

In behalf of the directors and the staff, W. Howard Alexander and Ralph H. Wagner expressed their deep appreciation for the excellent work done. William E. Yeager, as a director and commander of the Navy division, also extended his congratulations and thanks. Donald H. Mowell, commander of the Army division had been called out of town just before the closing session, but sent a message of appreciation to his five teams.

Alan Templeton and his strong team carried away highest honors. Templeton himself won first prize with a total of 1860 points to his credit, and his team carried off first honors with 96 members reported for 7730 points. Perhaps there was something prophetic in the number assigned to this team: No. 1. The same thought can be carried a bit farther, since teams No. 2 and No. 3 came through in second and third places. No. 2, captained by A. L. Rasmussen, piled up 6085 points, with 62 members. No. 3 team, Grover Lind at the held, was a very close third with 5955 points and 73 members. F. A. Keller's No. 7 team, which had been holding second place through the first two reports, wound up in fourth place with 5650 points and 76 members.

The No. 1 team, of which Mr. Templeton was captain, was made up of Robert Amero, E. C. Christensen, James Frantz, Wayne Furman, Red Johnson, Carl Peterson and Harry Summers. The work of Harry Summers deserves special commendation, as he gave his captain a close race for first honors, getting 1450 points.

Other awards made for outstanding achievement included a second prize for total point, which went to Fred Keller with 1845 points. Fred Keller also was highest in points for new members, with 820 points, but since no one was eligible for two prizes, the second highest, John Hanna, with 800 points, was given the first award; and David C. Levine the second prize for 720 new member points. Awards were made to Fern Mostert and Clara Ullrich as captain and high point scorer, respectively, for the one women's team.

Thanks of the Y. M. C. A. and the campaign workers were extended to the following firms for the added interest through prizes offered for individual production: Danielson-Carter, Emblem Oil Company, Kinnear's Stationery, the Style Shop, and Geracimos Company. Presentation of awards was by Howard Alexander, general chairman of the campaign, who presided at the meeting. The opening prayer was given by Rev. William T. Lane. Dining room service was capably rendered by a group of ladies of the First Presbyteriain church, assisted by Mrs. Homer Andrews, of the First Methodist.

In all fairness it should be pointed out that every team in the campaign did a very good job. All could not be out in front in points achieved, but they all did a creditable job, not one of them "falling down" in any sense of the word. It was pointed out to the assemblage that the women's team deserved special mention, since their job was for obvious reasons more difficult to perform, and they made a splendid showing. The teams not mentioned before, together with their achievement follows in order of standing:

No. 6, Harold Flowers captain, 77 members and 5540 points; No. 10, E. H. Leffard and David Levine, co-captains, 66 members and 5175 points; No. 4, George Frantz, captain, 54 members and 4550 points; No. 9, William Hill, captain, 49 members for 3965 points; No. 5, Charles Koebley captain, 44 members and 3680 points; No. 8, Fern Mostert captain, with 51 members and 3600 points.

Recognition of the helpful work of three aides in the campaign—David Smith, Lloyd Shirk and Katherine Bauer—was extended by the campaign leaders.

Still another Y. M. C. A. Membership Campaign has been an outstanding success, thanks to a fine-spirited group of citizens who have given unselfishly of their service, and to a community which appreciates the opportunities afforded by the "Y" and the constructive service it renders.

The Fourth Mrs. Baker

By Ernestine Adams — AP Newsfeatures

Chapter 12

[Sunday 1:03 p.m. to 5:37 p.m.]

MOORE was alone and looked rather wild when he took off his hat.

"I can't find him nowhere. He musta skipped."

"Why didn't you call up and tell us instead of coming up here? Jerry demanded angrily. "You know damn well you've been followed."

"It was madam's orders."

"Yeah. You want to give the police a line without cracking. You probably picked up a trail just so they'd know Mrs. Baker was here. If you can't do better than that I'll sell 'em a job on you that'll stick."

Moore's fleshy jaw shook and he ran the back of his hand across his mouth.

"Honest, Mr. Hayes, I never thought. I'll be more careful next time. Honest. I will. I never done it but them cops are after me till I can't think."

Jerry had cooled down when he answered.

"Okay. Get back home and stay there and watch out for Mrs. Baker or I'll have your gizzard."

Moore didn't wait. He clamped his hat on and slipped out the door.

"I never trusted that dope. Watch him, Julia." He came back and sat down again.

"Hank must have got the wind up. If the police don't find him no one is going to spill that rescue story."

"JERRY, there is something else. Robey was planning a coup last night. Do you know what it was?"

The fingers around her glass were white as she waited for his answer. A lock of hair had fallen over his forehead and he appeared to be weighing how much he should tell her.

"He must have given you some hint," she persisted.

"What he said was crazy. It couldn't have meant anything."

"What was it, Jerry?"

"He said he was having four Mrs. Bakers."

"Three," she corrected.

"He said four." He raised his eyes to hers. "And Virginia's life is an open column."

"Perhaps he meant to marry her next," she said slowly. "He was engaged to Grace before he divorced Alma."

She stood up and pulled on her gloves.

"I have to go. I'll call if anything happens."

Jerry rose and looked down at her, his lanky shoulders drooped forward.

"When you get back act dumb. Let 'em do their own figuring."

"Oh, Jerry! I'm not guilty. They won't arrest me."

"Won't they? You are an innocent. You are the only one in the bunch who hasn't some pretty powerful friends. You're perfect for the casting. Can't you see? Designing Cinderella marries the Prince for fame and money. She dumps Prince out the window and keeps the coin."

"All right. I'll be dumb."

WHEN the taxi drew near her apartment house she saw the place was surrounded by curiosity seekers and reporters.

In the crushing bedlam that followed her appearance in front of the building she was finally rescued by Inspector Venable. He took her by one arm and another man, squat and heavy with thick gray eyebrows, took the other. In the elevator Venable introduced him as Police Commissioner Hickerson.

The two hours that followed up in the library left Julia in horrified bewilderment. She tried to answer their questions calmly but they hammered at her until her voice rose in replies that sounded hysterical. Venable said little but the Commissioner and two other men took turns throwing questions at her with implied meanings which she was too confused to grasp. A stenographer worked quietly back of her and the fact that her words were being recorded added further to her panic.

"I think that's enough for now," she heard Venable say at last. Crushed as she felt, she noticed the stony glance the Commissioner turned on him.

But they did go and leave her. Moore brought a tray of food to her bedroom where she lay on the chaise lounge. There was soup and salad and crusty toast. She felt better after she had eaten. She rang for Moore.

"Moore, when you take the tray back, stay in the kitchen and warn me if any one comes in the back."

"Yes, madam."

As soon as he had left she went into the salon and walked to the fireplace. Quickly she took out the glass coals that lay in the silver net of the circular hole and piled them on one of the nearby sofas. She picked out a small piece of paper that had rested flat against the bottom of the fireplace.

Scarcely glancing at it she stuck it in the top of a stocking and hastily laid the coals back in the net. In spite of her care they made a tinkling sound like the one she had heard the night Robey came back from meeting the woman in the red hat.

Not until she was back in her room did she look at her prize. At first she wore a puzzled frown. It was a piece about four inches square which had been torn on the left side and the bottom.

"This is to certify that."

read the old English type. Then written in precise script:

"Robert C. Baker
and
Adelaide Campbell"

The only other words were in type again:

"Have This Day Been Joined in Holy Matrimony"

On the side were the figures "5-8-32" in pencil, evidently what Robey had put there and seemed to be the date—of the marriage, she supposed.

For a long time she sat there. She wondered why there was any secrecy about a marriage when Robey had had several and had made no effort to conceal any of them. Then she realized that one thing could make the marriage important—if Adelaide Campbell was alive and there had been no divorce.

[Sunday 5:37 p.m. to 7 p.m.]

EIGHT years before Robey had made his first success on the stage and he had been in the public eye ever since Julia knew that from his scrap books. But that was in the fall season following the date on the marriage certificate. The first marriage Julia knew of was to Alma who had been the sensation of the year at her first appearance in the Metropolitan. The wedding had made splashing headlines. From Frank's remarks she gathered that Alma had cared more for her actor husband than for her own career. Robey had divorced her in Paris two years later and had married Grace. Their battles in public made interesting reading, too, including the fight in the divorce courts of Reno. Grace had, in the end, won a large alimony after Robey's attorneys had suddenly withdrawn.

All these things stood in her mind and she tried to fit them to the scrap of paper she held. If the certificate was genuine—and why else would Robey, with his closeness with money, pay for it?—it might mean that the actor's other three marriages were bigamous. Or this one might have been annulled. Or the woman could have obtained a divorce with no publicity from Robert C. Baker because Robey never used his legal name.

But this was the fourth Mrs. Baker! This was what Jerry had told her about. Did that mean that Adelaide Campbell was the woman in the red hat? But she had not come to the party.

She heard the chimes of the doorbell. She jumped up and looked about in sudden panic. She must hide the piece of paper. There was no time to decide where a good place would be. She picked up a tall cylindrical shaped perfume bottle of glazed blue china and carried it to the bathroom and dumped the contents into the basin. It was a heavy oriental scent which Robey had bought for her and she had never used it. The odor was sickening and she turned the water on to wash it away. There was no time to dry the bottle thoroughly. She rolled the paper and put it inside and hurried back into the bedroom to place the bottle where it had stood before. She was back on the chaise when a tap sounded on the door from the salon.

"Come in," she called and breathed deeply to quiet her jumping nerves.

Virginia opened the door and stood against it looking like an exotic model in a full skirted black dress that showed most of her long slender legs. The square neck had a fold of white held with turquoise clasps. She wrinkled her long thin nose.

"That scent doesn't match your personality."

"I spilled the stuff. Sit down, Ginnie. I'm glad you're here." Her voice sounded effusive.

The girl sat in a slipper chair near the bed and looked at Julia critically.

"Instead of a famous beauty you might be a subject for Coney Island waxworks. It's a wonder to me they haven't arrested you for lack of makeup."

"Why didn't they arrest me? I thought they were going to."

"Because, darling, you're so gorgeous they'd have to have moving pictures of the crime to convict you. Silly, isn't it? But if you don't fly into another dress and wash that dead look off your face, they'll get you yet. If I were on trial I'd rather have a first rate dress designer than a good lawyer. Frank is out there talking to Moore. We are going to lay down tactics, Frank says. Whatever that is. The police are being barraged with fan mail. Every one wants to help hang the one who put the finger on his favorite actor."

"Robey —" Julia shuddered. "Then they know it's murder?"

"Well, what do you think? The police haven't informed the newspapers but the newspapers are telling the police. Haven't you read them?" At Julia's negative nod she went on. "Some one got hold of the story about the cop's head being bashed in last night. Frank has been up to headquarters and he has also been talking to Simon Lillie."

"Who is he?"

"My God, Julie, where have you lived all your life? He's the best criminal lawyer in New York. Now look, you. Get going. Get in the tub and I'll pick out your clothes."

WHEN she appeared in the salon later no one could see how she fought to preserve her calm.

Frank rose from the sofa on the far side of the fireplace where he sat with Virginia and came toward her. He took both her hands and she knew that he had cast her in the role of bereaved widow.

"I know it's horrible for you."

He led her to the opposite sofa and went back to his place by Virginia. He leaned forward and his dark eyes bored into Julia's above the table between them.

"I'm doing everything I can, my dear. I hope the police weren't too troublesome this afternoon. I talked to Lillie and he is ready to step in if you want him."

"Why should I? I'm not guilty." Her chin set stubbornly.

"But, Julie, dear, why did you go to Jerry? The Commissioner has hit on the idea that you're in love with him and that the two of you were in a plot."

"Oh, they can't think there is anything between Jerry and me! It's too ridiculous!"

"But why did you go?"

After a slight hesitation she decided to tell Frank the truth. There was no mistaking the surprise on both the faces opposite her. When they got the whole story Frank got up and began walking back and forth across the floor.

"I don't know whether to tell the police or not."

Frank drew his brows together.

"It couldn't help and it might put you in a worse light. Believe me, I'd tell you to if I didn't think it would confuse the whole issue. I think I know already who killed him."

Carver House Shows Effect of Remodeling

Workmen at the Carver hotel who have been busy for weeks on the upper floors of the hotel applying paint and paper have wrought a transformation in the place that is most marked. Dozens of the rooms have been put in excellent shape and the halls are vastly changed in appearance with light, clean paper applied. Work of making new draperies for every room in the hotel is under way and thousands of yards of material are being used. New linens have also been ordered and every effort is being made to secure new bed spreads, etc. New floor coverings are also being sought to replace many that had been worn almost threadbare.

A shop complete with mechanical saws, etc., has been set up in the basement of the hotel and work of getting out the fine lumber that will go into the trim for the cocktail lounge and bar is under way. Skilled workmen are handling the job and most of the fixtures will be built in the hotel shop ready for installation.

The former writing room of the hotel has been closed off and the old hotel private office has been torn out. A new private office has been installed using a portion of the former lounge. The writing room will be turned into a bar and the cocktail lounge will be installed in the former Brown building which is being annexed to the hotel proper.

Milburn Anderson, president of the Carver Hotel, Inc., states that "the task of getting the hotel into shape is a vast one. Crews of men have been busy ever since the new company took over the hotel. Effects of the hard work are now beginning to be seen and we are hopeful that when all is completed on the upper floors that we will be able to make the office and lounge room highly attractive with new lighting fixtures, etc., that will modernize the whole place".

LUDLOW

Ludlow, Nov. 26—Regular services were held in Moriah Lutheran on Sunday at 9:30 a. m. with the sermon text being "When The End Comes", the sermon given by the Rev. Hans Pearson. The choir anthem was "With Me Abide". Announcement was made of an open house to be held in the Sheffield parsonage on Friday evening at 8 o'clock for the entire Ludlow congregation and friends. This will be sponsored by the Missionary Society and the proceeds will be given to the Post War Emergency Fund. Refreshments will be served so members are asked to bring either cookies or sandwiches. Cars will meet at the church at 7:30 p. m. and there will be room for anyone desiring to go. Announcement was also made of the receipt of $1004.00 for the Building Fund during the recent drive.

The Covenant mission held regular services at 6 p. m. with the Rev. Wilbert Nyline of Kane delivering a sermon in Swedish.

Thanksgiving services were held in the Moriah Lutheran at 10 o'clock with the Rev. Hans Pearson delivering the sermon. "Thanks Unto The Lord". The choir anthem was, "Praise Ye The Father" by Gounod. There was a very large attendance and the collection of $37.00 will be given to the Children's Home of Jamestown.

Mr. and Mrs. John G. Johnson entertained on Monday evening at their home for the members of the Every Member Canvass Committee of Moriah Lutheran with ten present including Rev. and Mrs. Hans Pearson of Shieffield. Details of the Budget Committee were reported and it was announced that the obligation for the repairs to the church had been achieved. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

The first four grades of the Ludlow school gave a Thanksgiving program at 1 o'clock on Wednesday with the entire school and some parents present. The program opened with "The Star-Spangled Banner" sung by the assembly and continued with a Thanksgiving song by five little girls of the first and second grades, "John Brown and Ten Indians" by boys of the first and second grades, "Over The River and Through the Woods" by children of the third and fourth grades, and a play entitled "The First Thanksgiving" by members of the fourth grade. A splendid old New England setting and costumes were used which were made by Mrs. Julius Swanson, fourth grade teacher. A short talk was given by Mr. Waite, supervising principal, and an orchestra number was given under the direction of Mrs. Emil Nelson. All present enjoyed the little program.

Miss Annette Palmer celebrated her birthday on Thanksgiving Day with all of her cousins present including Fred Sapper, Jr., of Erie and Emelia and Robert Olson of Pittsburgh. Her brother, William also celebrated his birthday during the week. They are the children of Lt. (jg) Morris Palmer who is now stationed in Guam in the Naval Personnel Dept.

Fear of an Epidemic Causes Worry to Nagasaki Officials

By HAL BOYLE

Nagasaki, Japan—(AP)—Fear of an epidemic disease is causing more worry to American health authorities here than any possible after effects from radio-active remnants of the war's second atomic bomb.

It is due largely to the entreprise of a young Massachusetts doctor that no widespread contagion has radiated from this wasteland of death and devastation, whene science on Aug. 9 confirmed the atomic age, born three days before in blasted Hiroshima.

"Whatever we may feel about helping the Japanese, we have to take every step to protect our own troops," said Capt. Herbert Horne, Jr., former Lowell, Mass., and New York City medical center physician.

"Any civilian epidemic would endanger about 20,000 Second Marine division men in southern Kyushu."

As chief health officer for the American military government in this area, it was his job to prevent any such outbreaks after his arrival Sept. 25. He found himself without adequate medical supplies and with little Japanese medical talent.

"Everybody was still dazed and disorganized," he said. "All but four doctors on the Nagasaki medical university factulay and student members of the third and fourth year classes were wiped out by the bomb. It exploded only a few hundred yards from the university and its hospital. Every patient, every nurse and every doctor inside the hospital were killed, as well as every first and second year medical student."

Horne estimated that the bombing cost 60,000 to 80,000 lives.

Although the bomb's fierce heat had powdered the paper records in the Nagasaki hospital, and melted windows and medicine bottles, it left intact many medical instruments in the basement.

In an adjoining building it had miraculously left intact many mattresses and iron cots. Horne appropriated them.

Nagasaki now has electrical service and a safe water supply—the gas plant was demolished—but flies are thick over ruined areas where the stench of trapped bodies still is strong. All bodies that could be found were pied together and burned with gasoline, a practice the Japanese, themselves, initiated.

"We are afraid of typhoid and diphtheria epidemics," Horne said, "though the disease rate is currently low."

Venereal disease is extremely prevalent and a real health menace to the troops. Horne said the Geisha houses were closed after the examination of 337 prostitutes disclosed that 81 per cent had syphilis.

"We also found, in an examination of a cross section of the population, that approximately 6[illegible] per cent were similarly infected," the doctor said.

State Has the Smallest Spud Crop In Years

Commercial potato growers of Pennsylvania, after struggling through one of the most damaging blight and bad weather seasons experienced in many years, have been well repaid for their efforts of persistent spraying by realizing yields which in most cases were higher than expected, State Secretary of Agriculture Miles Horst said following a Federal-State preliminary survey of 1945 spud production on Pennsylvania farms.

This year's Keystone State potato crop is now estimated at 17,515,000 bushels, lowest since 1901, the Secretary reported. This is 1,625,000 below 1944 production and 4,803,000 bushels less than the 1934-1943 average of 22,318,000. Wet weather, which resulted in heavy vine growth and spread of disease, was responsoble for an average yield of only 113 bushels per acre, 3 less than last year. Due to shortage of labor and machines growers planted only 157,000 acres this year, 10,000 less than 1944.

Small, unsprayed acreage became badly blighted during the growing season and some fieled to return the value of the seed. Digging was greatly delayed by October rains and in some northwestern areas farmers had to dig their crops out of the mud.

In the Cambria-Somerset area fair to good yields were obtained where sprayed. Fields on gravel or well-drained soil, where sprayed, turned up good yields or high quality potatoes in the Lehigh-Northampton area. Potatoes in the Gegins Valley of Schuylkill county yielded better than ever, graded out well and were of excellent quality. Throughout the other counties, and in the southeast in particular, crops were good in some sections and not so good in others, but generally infected by blight, and by rot on low ground.

The percentage of U. S. No. 1 grade from the commercial potato survey showed 72 per cent, compared with 70 last year.

Baby Season Again Arrives In Hollywood Movie Colony

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood—(AP)—In most towns it wouldn't be very remarkable if such names as Mrs. Felix Jackson, Mrs. Vincent Minnelli, Mrs. William Howard and Mrs. John Payne were having babies, But in Hollywood it's news.

The expectant mothers are otherwise known as Deanna Durbin, Judy Garland, Dorothy Lamour and Gloria De Haven and the fact that they are having babies upsets a whole industry. Hollywood runs in fads and this season it seems to be raising families. That throws a wrench into production schedules and film bosses tear their hair over what actress will be available for pictures.

Maria Montez and Brenda Marshall are also on the expectant list and Veronica Lake gave birth to a boy last month.

In the meantime, local gabbers are busily predicting motherhool for such brides as Betty Hutton, June Allyson and Faye Emerson, none of which has been confirmed. One earnest columnist predicted a birth for a star next August. Hollywoodians counted on their fingers and wondered.

Also in the baby dept.—It's plain to see who's the boss in the Rita Hayworth-Orson Welles home. It's their daughter Rebecca.

Orson was all set to leave for New York next month to begin the Cole Porter musical, "Around the World in 80 Days." But Rita said no. She wanted the family to spend Christmas at home.

"Rebecca won't even know what's going on," she told me on the "Gilda" set, "but at least she'll know in future years that she spent her first Christmas with her mother and father at home."

Lana Turner will play a battling woman in "Frankie From Frisco", a James Cain story about railroad building in 1865 .. . Glenn Ford appears set to play "Pal Joey" for Columbia . . . Frank Sinatra will erect a five-story Frank Sinatra building in Beverly Hills. I wonder if it will be bobbysoxer proof. . . . Howard Hughes and Hunt Stromberg are scurrying to get their Jane Russell pictures, "The Outlaw" and "young Widow," to the public first. Hughes is in the lead with a February release.

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority

Here is the type of hand that wins championships. The national tournament at the Hotel Chelsea in Atlantic City next week will in all likelihood produce several hands of this sort.

Take a quick glance at the hand. If you were told to play it at six-odd, would you prefer spades or diamonds?

The average bridge player would too often play this hand at spades, which would be held to five, while six diamonds is cold. That was the contract arrived at by Waldemar von Zedtwitz and Samuel Katz in the recent Metropolitan Tournament in New York.

After East cashed the king of hearts, he shifted to a club. Von Dedtwitz went up with the ace, took three rounds of trumps, and discarded good spades. The nine of clubs was ruffed with his last trump.

Give Your Ex-Serviceman Leisure Togs or Pleasure Equipment for Christmas

All set for the happiest Christmas since the war began, this mother and daughter have bought for their returning serviceman all the things he'll need for civilian life. Besides the shirts, sweaters, ties, lounging slippers, toiletries they are packing in gay wrappings, there's some new sports equipment for that holiday they're planning.

By KATHARINE SHERWOOD
NEA Service Correspondent

NEW YORK—The first man on your Christmas list this year is the ex-serviceman, and for his re-entry into civilian life he will like gifts that fill out his civilian wardrobe or that will go with him into the business world. All men, whether they be ex-servicemen or weary businessmen, will appreciate gifts that increase the pleasure of their leisure time.

Clothing stores have no stock reserves for the holidays, and it may take a bit of time and watchfulness to get shirts, pajamas or underwear in correct sizes. There will be less difficulty finding wool lounging robes, short, loose leisure coats, rayon sports shirts and colorfull neckties.

The dude in him will revel in the brisk tweedy scents of foamy shaving soap and lotions. Leather cases for discharge papers, and memento cases with attached scrapbooks for service souvenirs are popular gifts.

OUTDOORSY

If he relaxes best in the fresh air of wind-swept places, he will like the new weatherproof nylon rain outfits, zippered buck suede jackets, warm and flashily designed sweaters, or a capeskin-lined tweed golf jacket. For the camper, there are sturdy cook stoves, and a lightweight aluminum canoe for easy carrying. And for the golfer who caddies for himself there is a golf cart that keeps clubs in an upright position and has a big compartment for balls and odds and ends.

TOOL FOR TINKERER

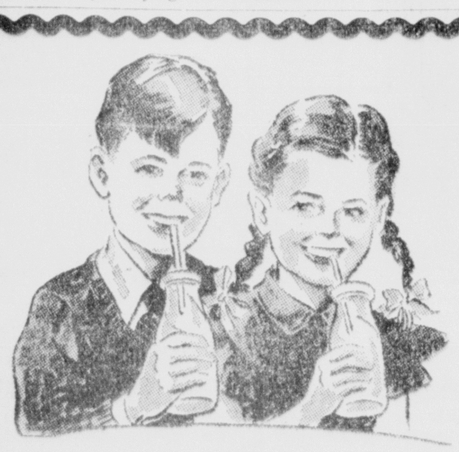
Maybe he prefers to putter in his workshop. A new tool for the amateur carpenter is an electrically-powered instrument with 24 interchangeable machine tool heads for precision work.

Start him on a new hobby with a model airplane, which is powered by a rocket-gas motor and retrieved with wires. New, also, are the huge English box kites capable of soaring two miles in the air, and requiring plenty of skill and strength to handle. Should his pleasures be more sedentary, a moderately priced whittling set will keep his hands busy while he philosophizes with his friends.

More people were killed in their homes than were killed in all railroad accidents in the United States last year.

If you lived on the moon, you'd see the earth in the sky just as we now see the moon, only it would be larger and would never set.

LIKE MAGIC—the Want Ads pull Big Dollars out of small articles.



Their Favorite Drink Is MILK!

They love it—they thrive on it—there's hardly a child who will refuse a glass of milk. Keep them satisfied, happy and healthy with our wholesome, creamy, rich milk. A glass at each meal and with their afternoon snack will put roses on their cheeks, a sparkle in their eyes, keep their bodies fit and their minds alert.

A Soaking in Japan

'AN UNFINISHED TASK

Tuberculosis has been called the unnecessary disease. For more than half a century, mankind has known its cause, its method of spread and the right way to prevent its occurrence, yet in Pennsylvania the deaths number about 4,000 annually. This is a record of failure.

A crucial fight is ahead during these peace years, for war and its aftermath breed TB. Because of the stealthy character of the disease the real effect of war conditions may not be revealed for several years.

This is a war that must go on.

WAKE UP YOUR DIGESTION BELOW THE BELT

This Kind of Laxative Help Often Needed When Lower Sluggishness Causes Gassy, Bloating Misery

When most food leaves the stomach, it is by no means fully digested. It is in the 28 feet or more of intestines that the greater part of digestion is done. When we get constipated these later stages of digestion often slow down. Then food is apt to ferment and decay excessively in the bowels. As a result we may feel full of gassy bloating and other indigestion miseries. That's when you need Beecham's Pills. They work to relieve this congestion of waste and encourage the welcome elimination which helps promote better digestion below the belt. Ask your druggist for gentle, all-vegetable Beecham's Pills today. Caution: Use only as directed. 25¢.

Joe E. Brown Plans Career Including Six-Foot Rabbit

Hollywood—(AP)—Now that the war is over, Joe E. Brown is again looking after his own career, and his plans for the future involve a six-foot rabbit.

During the war years, Joe made only one picture and devoted the rest of his time to entertaining American troops in all parts of the world. His war record exceeds even that of the indefatigable Hope. But now Joe has to look after himself, too.

"I think there is a definite place in the world for the fool—the guy who makes people laugh," he told me. "Some people have gotten the idea that I have become serious. I am serious about anything concerning the welfare of our servicemen. But I'm still in the business of being funny."

Joe is going to resume that business in "Harvey," the Mary Chase play of the drunk and the imaginary six-foot rabbit, which began a new career for Frank Fay. Joe opens in Columbus Dec. 21 and then plays Cincinnati, St. Louis, Kansas City, San Francisco and Los Angeles. Before opening in Chicago next September, he'll have time to do a picture. His services should be in demand because of the ready-made G. I. audience he commands.

Al Jolson's plan to retire to Florida next year have aroused bitter comment from the Los Angeles chamber of commerce, or so it is reported. Al, who is overseeing production of "The Al Jolson Story," has purchased the Lord Tarleton Hotel at Miami, Fla., and intends to spend his future years on the southern sands.

"I think Los Angeles is a great place," he said, "but I have a soft spot for Miami. It's more convenient to New York, for one thing."

Twentieth-Fox's biography of Sol Hurok, "impersario," will feature such concert artists as Marian Anderson, Arthur Rubenstein, Don Cossack chorus, Markova and Dolin, Carmen Amaya and Ezio Pinza . . . Robert Taylor is off on a hunting trip to lower California . . . Lt. (JG) Dennis Day of the Jack Benny family expects to be out by February . . . Richard Lyon, scion of Bebe Daniels and Ben Lyon, will act in "Anna and the King of Siam" . . . I can't keep up with Robert Walker and Peter Lawford. Now they're dating Harold Lloyd's daughters, Peggy and Gloria . . . Lucille Ball and Desi Arnez are planning a personal appearance in Rio . . . An advertisement in the trade papers offers this solution to the housing problem: A gentleman's estate with 15 acres of date palms near Palm Springs for $200,000. Only $60,000 down . . . Kay Kyser will do his radio show from Hollywood next week, his first in four years . . . a two-hour CBS show on Thanksgiving Day will feature Fibber McGee and Molly, Bergen and McCarthy, Durante and Moore, Lauritz Melchior, Frances Langford, Elsie Janis and Don Ameche.

SEND A SMALL GIFT ALONG WITH YOUR CHRISTMAS CARD

(Lord & Taylor)

Tuck a surprise in your greeting card.

By ROSELLEN CALLAHAN
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK—This year there are lots of inexpensive answers to that Christmas puzzler: What to buy as a small remembrance for those friends to whom you want to send a little something more than a holiday greeting.

Main floor counters are beginning to fill with useful novelties small enough to slip in with the Christmas card, several of which are sketched here. A pair of stockings—nylons, of course, if they're available—is always welcome. A flat, folding pocket-size picture frame, which can be opened up and slipped in an envelope, comes in bright-colored leather for women, and dark colors for men. The leather address book shown is also thin enough to be tucked into a wallet.

'KERCHIEF FLOWERS

For the glamor girl, why not send her one of those embroidered or beaded velvet headbands, or a sequin-studded net for her evening hair-do?

No one ever has enough scarves or ascots, and this season there are so many new ways to wear them. Nor can anyone have too many handkerchiefs. One store is packaging them in colored gift cards which are painted with stems and leaves. When the four corners of the handkerchief are slipped through a slit above the stem, it gives the effect of a flower in full bloom.

Bill clips, sachet, barettes and sequin appliques are a few other suggestions sure to please.

Notice For Patrons On Rural Routes

Postmaster J. K. Bell requests publication of the following information directed to patrons of the rural delivery service:

The Post Office Department has requested that the following regulations, covering the delivery of mail during the winter season, be brought to your attention.

After heavy snow storms it is the responsibility of the patron to see that the roads are put in such condition that it will be possible for carriers to travel them or it necessary to make arrangements with the proper highway officials to open the road. Failure to comply will cause a temporary suspension of mail service.

Patrons are also required to keep the approaches to their boxes clear of snow in order that delivery can be made without the carrier alighting from vehicle.

Carriers are expected to make every reasonable effort to serve their patrons but are not required to perform service on foot or make excessive detours. If through emergency such detours should become necessary patrons should temporarily relocate their baxes; receive their mail through the boxes of other patrons, or make some other arrangement for its delivery until the roads are open for travel.

Thanks in anticipation of your cooperation.

Respectfully yours,
J. K. Bell, Postmaster.

Struthers Meets Humidors On Sat.

Manager Rabbit Swanson, of the Struthers Wells quintet, announced this morning that his outfit will play host to the Jamestown Humidors Saturday night at 8:30 on the YMCA hardwood.

Swanson stated that the Humidors are composed of all former Jamestown Falcon baseball players in the PONY loop. Included are Johnny O'Neill, Mark Hoskins, Dick Schmidt, Ted Wybernack, and Leon Anderson.

Struthers meets Youngsville tonight in its first league game of the season. Saturday's game will be preceded by a preliminary, teams not yet released

Resourceful Hunter

Ed Bimber, of whom there is no more truthful angler and nimrod, brings a real bear story from the deep woods. While Ed has never been accused of drawing the long, bow old hunters are just a wee bit skeptical of the tale.

But, according to Ed, a hunter entered the woods to bring home a rug to place in front of his fireplace, and he diligently hunted for a huge bear. Finally, he spotted a bruin carrying a regal-sized rug on his back. Carefully taking aim at the bear he blazed away. The bullet hit the bear, severely wounding him, and causing his dander to rise to 1008. He started after the hunter, who dropped his gun and sought a tree. Hastily clambering up out of the bear's territory the hunter was safe. But the bear continued to surge around the tree emitting most lusty growls. Finally, after a two hour perch in the bare boughs where the winds whistled and chilled the hunter's marrow bones, the huntsman determined that something should be done. With his hunting knife, he cut a small bough of the tree and, with a heavy leather shoe string, fashioned a bow. Then taking his hunting knife for an arrow the hunter awaited until open mouthed the bear reared up beside the tree. Twang! the bow let go and the knife sped its way into the open mouth of the bear. The animal coughed and red blood flowed from the wound in his throat. Suffering great pain, the bear started and tore through the woods while the hunter, stiff and sore after hours in the tree clambered down, retrieved his rifle, and sped for home.

UNRRA Faces Staggering Task In Its Efforts to Aid Revival of Agriculture

UNRRA seeks to supplement stores of food exported to the needy millions with food to be raised on restored farms. Here Malayan natives get their rations of rice distributed by the relief organization.

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

Washington, Nov. 28—While the desperate struggle goes on all over the world to feed starving millions this winter, UNRRA and the stricken countries are fighting just as desperately to grow a big enough crop for next winter's needs. And far beyond that, the Farm and Agricultural Organization of the United Nations Organization is taking shape under its new Director-General, Sir John Orr.

Not only did the war cause the present food crisis but its damage to the world's agriculture industry will be felt for years. The job of agricultural rehabilitation is staggering.

UNRRA has already shipped more than $69,000,000 worth of tractors, seeds, horses, mules, cows, and fertilizer into occupied countries to help agricultural production. Lack of funds has forced it to give up much of the agricultural rehabilitation program in lieu of supplying food directly.

In addition UNRRA experts are trying to eliminate certain insect pests which increased during the war and spread disease among cattle and crops. They plan to bring in chickens to restock almost non-existant poultry stocks.

England, Australia, Belgium, France and the other countries not aided by UNRRA are also struggling to patch up the war damage to their farming. Most of them report fair progress on long range planning but aren't too optimistic about next year's harvest.

Orr startled England in the early twenties by claiming that a new kind of starvation was ravaging its people. It wasn't starvation caused by hunger. It was caused by lack of vitamins. He correlated the high infant mortality rate in England with it. He demonstrated all kinds of other evil effects. He led the fight in Britain for better distribution of vitamins as well as bread. This is the essence of his plan for FAO.

So that the farmer will always get a fair price for his crop, Orr proposes a world wheat pool. When the market price goes below a certain figure, he says, it should be bought by an international organization and kept in the pool for distribution when there is a need for it. He would have the same operation for the world rice market.

Games Slated In City Loop This Evening

City League cagers move into the second night of action tonight on the YMCA court with Bakers and Blomquists, two kid outfits, clashing in the 7:30 prelim and the Struthers-Wells outfit battling the Youngsville Skating Rink at 8:30 in the nightcap.

Penn Bottle, of Sheffield, and O'Connors, also of Sheffield, are currently leading the loop after the inaugural last Monday night. The Bottlers defeated Sylvania, and O'Connors edged Times-Mirror.

The Baker-Blomquist tilt will be a close bettle between the two youthful quintets, and Struthers is rated a favorite over the Rink combine from Youngsville.

The Struthers outfit, victorious in its first game last Saturday, is rated as the "team to beat" in the loop. "Rabbit" Swanson's proteges copped league honors last season and are on the beam to repeat. The addition to last year's team of "Elmo" Wolfe, Ray Ritchie, and Louis Check makes the crew a potential winner. However, the Sylvanians and Penn Bottle will be right in the thick of the battle by mid-season.

Games will start promptly at 7:30 and 8:30.

Irish and Gobs In Battle At Chicago

Chicago, Nov. 29—(AP)—Notre Dame and Great Lakes' Bluejackets will settle their wartime football rivalry—it's unlikely they will play next year—at the Naval Training Station Saturday before 25,000.

The game, midwestern gridiron finale, will be fourth of a series now deadlocked at a victory apiece and a tie.

In 1942 the two teams fought to a 13-13 draw in Soldier Field, Chicago. The following year the Tars upset the Irish at Great Lakes, 19-14, on a 46-yard touchdown pass from Steve Lach to Paul Anderson with 28 seconds left to play. The Irish avenged the loss last year with a 28-7 triumph at South Bend.

The Bluejackets now hold five consecutive victories after losing three games and tying one.

Army's Coach Says "Forget The Records"

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 29—(AP)—You can throw all the records out the window and chalk up Saturday's Army-Navy game as a rough, tough struggle in which anything might happen.

That is, you can if you're inclined to believe Colonel Earl (Red) Blaik, head coach of the all-victorious Army team which has been established in most quarters as a four-touchdown favorite to sink the Navy, run its victory string to 18 and pocket the national championship of 1945.

With furrowed brow, Blaik will look you straight in the eye and tell you he rates the game a toss-up. And there's something about his straight-forward manner that makes you think he really means it.

"Navy has improved immeasurably the last three weeks," Blaik says, "particularly on the offense."

If pressed, Blaik will explain that the Middies are now using a tight T-formation about 80 percent of the time, whereas they formerly ran mostly from a split T.

Also, Army may be weakened somewhat by the illness of Arnold Tucker, first string quarterback, and Barney Poole, second string end—both in bed wit hmild cases of flu—and an injured shoulder received by Rop Rowan, chief understudy of fullback Doc Blanchard, in yesterday's practice.

But the principal equalizer in this game is the traditional rivalry existing between the two service academies, says Blaik, who believes past performances can be forgotten any time the two teams meet.

Middies May Lose Lineman For Saturday

By BUS HAM

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 29—(AP)—Navy had an added worry today—whether guard Jim Carrington will be able to play—as the Middies packed seabags to shove off for Philadelphia and Saturday's big game with Army.

Carrington had a temperature of 100 before yesterday's last long workout, and the Middies' coach, Commdr. Oscar E. Hagberg, sent him to bed.

Hagberg said he expects Carrington to be ready to start against Army but a further check will be made on his condition before squad leaves for Philadelphia this afternoon.

Should Carrington's illness hang on, Stan Turner, an experienced and able understudy, would be in line for the starting right guard position.

Two other Navy regulars, end Leon Bramlett and tackle Bo Coppedge, have shoulder injuries but Hagberg said they will "be in there Saturday."

Navy men said the Middies realize they must go out and score three or four times to stay in the running with Army's mighty machine.

"We've simply got to outscore them," they said.

SPORTS ACROSS PENNSYLVANIA

By Tom Shriver

By TOM SHRIVER

Harrisburg, Nov. 29—(AP)—It has been just eight months since Allentown and Donora met at Philadelphia . . . The state basketball championship was at stake . . . .Allentown won the game in the last three seconds of play.

Now both clubs have swept through the football season to take major conference titles . . . Allentown won the east-central (Big Fifteen) championship . . . Donora carried off the WPIAL crown for the second straight year . . . A crowd of 10,000 saw the Dragons jolt New Kensington.

Reports are prevalent that the two schools may meet again . . . This time in a post-season war bond game to settle the state football championship . . . The Beaver Field Stadium at Penn State College has been selected as the site for the game. . . No date has been set.

Donora Coach Busy

Speaking of Donora, Jimmy Russell the coach of the Dragons is a busy man . . . He is off on a speaking tour with Oil City as one of his stops. . . He will be guest speaker at a banquet tendered the Oilers on Dec. 6. . . Rumors around the central part of the state indicate that Russell may be offered a new post next fall . . . One of the teams in the new Central Pennsylvania Football Conference is ready to make him an offer.

China Bowl Game

While the Army and Navy are clashing at Philadelphia on Saturday another service classic will be played nearly 12,000 miles away. . . . The site of the fray is Shanghai, China, and the army will face the Navy in a "China Bowl" football game . . . Coaching the Army will be L. Alex Atty, one of Johnstown High's outstanding linemen in 1933 . . . . He later played at West Virginia, and with the Cleveland Rams. . . .

Round The Gridiron

John A. Hoch asks for a better break for the Susquehanna Football League. . . . Composed of teams in the central part of the state . . . .The championship was won this year by Milton, with a record of 11 straight wins.

Fred Sherman, picked on last year's all-state team by the Associated Press led the Wyoming Valley Conference in points scored. . . . He tallied 73 markers for Hanover Township, scoring one touchdown in the upset of Dunmore.

GRANDSON OF QUEEN VICTORIA ARRESTED

Nuernberg, Germany, Nov. 29—(AP)—The U. S. military government at Coburg today announced the arrest of Karl Eduard, duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha and a grandson of Britain's queen Victoria.

The duke was president of the German Red Cross and had a general's rank in the Nazi storm troops.

The Nazis used English-born Karl Eduard as a show piece to demonstrate that the German aristocracy favored the Nazi regime.

The 61-year-old duke's estates have been confiscated.

luss by the code name "Otto," was taken from files of the German high command, assistant U. S. Prosecutor Sidney S. Alderman said. He then produced a directive from Marshal Werner von Blomberg in which he quoted the former secretary of war as saying "there might be special preparations for war against Austria."

The war plan was introduced over the objection of counsel for Col. Gen. Alfred Jodl, German army chief of staff, who said that the document showed only that the Wehrmacht was preparing "for all eventualities," including "war against Spain."

PUBLISHER DIES

Pottsville, Nov. 29—(AP)—Funeral services were being arranged today for Edmund L. Clifford, 76, general manager and treasurer of the Pottsville Republican, who died yesterday of cerebral thrombosis. Clifford, third member of the newspaper's executive staff to die this year, was connected with the Republican for 57 years. He had been in ill health for the past few months following an operation.

Marshall To Testify At Investigation

found by the Japanese after they took over the embassy following the Pearl Harbor attack.

"None whatsoever," the witness replied firmly.

In announcing Gen. Marshall's forthcoming appearance before the committe, Barkley said in a statement:

"The committee has been officially advised that General Marshall will be able to testify before the committee prior to his departure for China. As soon as his schedule in this respect is definite, he will advise the committee in ample time to arrange for his testimony before he leaves the country."

Barkley added the comment that Marshall, wartime chief of staff for the army, "is just as anxious to testify before the committee as the committee is to hear him."

An army board which investigated the Pearl Harbor disaster noted that a Dec. 7, 1941, alert order which Marshall telephoned to Gen. MacArthur in the Philippines was sent by commercial facilities to army commanders in Hawaii. It was delivered three hours after the Japanese attacked.

The fortnight-old Pearl Harbor investigation swung toward the military side today despite Republican protests against dropping state department angles "without notice."

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) told reporters he had been planning a line of questions for Max Hamilton, chief of the state department's far eastern division at the time of the Dec. 7, 1941, attack.

Yesterday, however, counsel for the senate-house committee announced that after brief testimony today by former Secretary Joseph C. Grew the witnesses would be Maj. Gen. Sherman Miles and Vice Adm. Theodore S. Wilkinson. They were chiefs of army and navy intelligence at the time of Pearl Harbor.

Asked what he planned to ask the military men, Ferguson—who has been the committee's most persistent questioner, replied:

"I don't know. I'm not ready. Counsel didn't inform us of the change. You reporters knew of it, but we didn't."

The Michigan senator agreed with other committee members, however, that Gen. George C. Marshall, wartime army chief of staff, ought to be heard before he leaves for his new post as special envoy to China.

The state department phase, despite long testimony by Hull, former Undersecretry Sumner Welles and Grew, still is far from over.

Grew, who has appeared daily since Monday, came back to finish his testimony, which enlarged yesterday on previous testimony concerning futile efforts by Premier Prince Konoye in September, 1941, to arrange a meeting with the late President Roosevelt.

"We in Tokyo felt," the former ambassador said, "that if Prime Minister Konoye and President Roosevelt could meet face to face" something might be worked out to avert a clash.

Labor Chief Takes A Hand In G. M. Strike

sume negotiations promptly with the striking union. There was no advance hint as to what Wilson's reply would be.

Warren told reporters he was "hopeful" of getting the two parties together again and of finding a common ground for discussion of the union's 30 per cent wage increase demand.

The Ford Motor Co., also facing the 30 per cent demand, meanwhile pressed its counter-demand for "company security" with a definite proposal.

In its next contract with the UAW-CIO it suggested a provision entitling the company to deduct from union dues collected under the check-off system $5 for each day or fraction thereof any union member is idle in an unauthorized work stoppage.

Terming the proposal "unrealistic," Richard T. Leonard, UAW-CIO Ford director, said it would not guarantee an end to unauthorized strikes.

Shawmut Employes Have New Bosses

Pittsburgh, Nov. 29—(AP)—The 350 Shawmut Mining Co. coal diggers who have been on strike since last July seeking better living conditions in their company-owned villages today had two new "bosses."

Thomas C. Buchanan, of Beaver, former Pennsylvania Public Utility Commissioner, and Pittsburgh Certified Accountant Robert C. Sproul, Jr., were replacing Attorney John D. Dickson, of Wellsville, N. Y., to head the equity receivership of the Pittsburgh, Shawmut and Northern Railroad Co.

A spokesman for employes of the subsidiary mining company charged in court Tuesday that Dickson "couldn't take time to sit down with his men." And that they felt they could never deal with him.

The miners from Force and nearby town precipitated an investigation into the 40-year-old receivership. Their strike against what they termed "intolerable" sanitary conditions was two months old when they sought help from Attorney General Tom C. Clark.

Washington, Nov. 29—(AP)—A drastic revision of American policy on Germany is expected by diplomatic officials to result from Byron Price's report to President Truman on the potential failure of present German administration.

One result of any such change may be to eliminate to a great extent the remaining influence of Henry Morgenthau, Jr., over German control policy.

With his "Morgenthau plan"—a so-called hard-peace plan—the former secretary of the treasury had great influence in the writing of the basic German policy directive. This is the directive—known as JCS 1067—under which the American military government in Germany functioned originally and from which it still draws considerable authority even though the Big Three declaration at Potsdam is now the basic guide.

Price recommended that JCS 1067, be rewritten "into a few hundred words of general principles."

He said its detailed provisions "fail with untold force upon General Eisenhower's officers, now long experienced in the actual business of dealing with the Germans."

Mr. Truman's special emissary also laid emphasis on the need to increase German production to a point at which it would help to make Germany self-sustaining by providing exports to match needed imports

Mr Truman transmitted the report to the secretaries of state, war and navy yesterday with a recommendation that they give it careful consideration with a view to taking joint action. He called Price, former director of censorship, "an able and experienced observer."

ASKS $500 FOR HOUND

Washington, Pa., Nov. 29—(AP)—Claiming that his foxhound, "Abner," was shot and killed while persuing a grey fox across a field, Robert K. Moore, Buffalo township sportsman yesterday filed suit for $500 damages against Samuel Post. Moore described his dog as having "great speed and skill" in the destruction of foxes.

SUGAR GROVE

Sugar Grove, Nov. 27—Mr. and Mrs. James A. McIntosh had open house Saturday evening, celebrating their silver wedding anniversary when seventy friends and relatives were entertained. Mrs. R. E. Seamens, of Greensburg, Pa., and Mrs. James Martin, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., sisters of Mr. McIntosh. Guests were present from Jamestown, Warren, Sugar Grove, Erie and the families of Mrs. Seamens and Mrs. Martin from Greensberg and Niagara Falls. The home decorations were pom poms in white, yellow and rose colors and were the gift of the couples daughter Mrs. Andrew Landolph of Beaver Dam, N. Y., who was unable to be present on account of illness in the family.

Buffet refreshments were served in the dining room by Mrs. Seamens and Mrs. Martin from a table centered with shaggy white chrysanthemums in a silver bowl and silver candle holders and white candles. Mrs. McIntosh of Warren presided at the table. The refreshments included a large three tiered decorated wedding cake. Mrs. Hobart Sanders assisted the hostesses. Mr. and Mrs. McIntosh received many nice gifts of silver and other gifts and many cards.

The Presbyterian Sunday School had their annual service last Sunday at which they presented gifts for a mission school at Bamberg, S. C. for colored children. Each class presented the gifts in Christmas wrappings, with appropriate thoughts including readings, music, prayer and scripture. This service is held each year on the Sunday following Thanksgiving, in order to have the gifts reach the school for Christmas.

The Girl and Boy Scouts enjoyed a skating party at the roller skating rink in Youngsville Thursday evening, with the girls leader Mrs. Scott Stuart, Jr., in charge. Transportation was provided by Gerald Miller, Francis Dowd, Donald Barrett, Clarence Sherrard and their wives and Mrs. A. A. Grant.

Mrs. Jesse Thompson, Mrs. F. A. Schoonover and Mrs. Roy Briggs, entertained at the former's home Friday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Carleton Foss, who was presented with lovely gifts including a baby bed for the baby boy James Arthur who recently came to make his home with Rev. and Mrs. Foss.

Fifteen women of the Methodist church enjoyed a delightful afternoon with Mrs. Lauren Hendershott, of Rockland, Pa., daughter of the hostess in charge of games and entertainment. Prizes won by the guests were in turn presented to the guest of honor. The gifts were presented in a unique manner, the group singing Showers of Bundles as the gifts were lowered by ribbons from the ceiling to Mrs. Foss who responded in a gracious minner. Dainty refreshments were served.
